Montauk Club of Brooklyn tonight gave a dinner in honor of Chauncey M. Depew's birthday.

Montauk Club of Brooklyn, which is the most distinguished club in the town, was organized in 1881.

Thomas M. Patterson presided, and Gen. J. B. Weaver and H. E. Taubeneck, chairmen of the National Populist Party, were present. Gen. Weaver had just come from Oregon, where he says he believes the Democrats and Populists will combine and carry the State.

The general condition of the Populist Party in the nation, and the relation it shows to the Democratic Party, was discussed.

Mr. Patterson made a strong speech for an amalgamation of all the silver forces, regardless of party.

Mr. Taubeneck followed in the same strain.

He counselled conservatism in the party, urged that the platform be adopted.

Mr. Patterson said that the party had more than a fighting chance, if only the proper precautions were taken to give the people acceptable candidates.

CLOSING IN ON THE ENGLISH.

Matabeles Threaten a Patrol Line.

They Are Driven Back with Over Fifty Slain.

A Panic Caused at Buluwayo by a Discovery.

Cecil Rhodes Has Recovered from His Illness—New Plan of Attack Adopted by the Africans. Boers' Preparations.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE

LONDON, April 18.—A dispatch from Buluwayo, dated April 17, says that the rebels are increasing in numbers in close proximity to the force of the patrol established by the English. Forty-two men attacked the vanguard of the Matabeles at dawn, and drove them back to the main body. Two of the horses belonging to the British attacking party were killed, however. According to reports received here, over fifty natives were killed.

At noon the scouts again encountered the Matabeles in the neighborhood of the government house. Again in the afternoon a panic was caused in the town by the discovery of 200 of the natives hiding in the bush back of the hospital, where they were detained by the forces of the British.

Advices so far as received do not indicate whether any of the English or Matabeles were killed or injured during any of these later conflicts. The situation is, however, growing serious hourly, and a hot time is expected soon.

ON THE SOUTDAANESE FRONTIER.

NEW YORK, April 18.—A dispatch to the Herald from Assouan, Egypt, says that at present there are about ten thousand men on the Soudaneese frontier, out of which there are gathered at Akashah three battalions of infantry, a squadron of cavalry, and a battery of six guns under Hunter Pasha.

The latter force, as soon as sufficient canoes have arrived at the spot for purposes of transport, will push on to Suarda, which is garrisoned by a strong force of dervishes. The attacking party, under Col. Hunter, will number 20,000 men, while the number of dervishes at Suarda is estimated to be about 14,000. Hickman Bay left Assouan on Monday with instructions to push on with all speed to Suarda, in order to take up the post of chief of staff to Col. Hunter.

GENERAL TONON TO COMMAND. LONDON, April 18.—Gen. Tonon, the British commander at Givani, has been ordered to the Cape of Good Hope in order to take command of the British forces at Matabeleland. He is a veteran in South African warfare.

DED. HERCULES LIE.

CAFE TOWN, April 18.—(By African Cable. Associated Press Copyright, 1896.) Military men, scouts, Dutchmen and Englishmen, civilians of all classes, veterans, troopers and government officials concur in the statement that the Governor of Capetown, Sir Hercules Robinson, has not told the truth, if he notified the home government that Buluwayo is in no danger. It is evident to everybody here that the British at Buluwayo are in the most critical position. The chief point of their weakness is in the smallness of their numbers, and the immensity of the horde of Matabeles gathering for an attack. Then again, large numbers of Matabeles, presumed to be friendly, have by some excuse or other succeeded in entering the town, and it is well known that they intended to rise and strike at the British, as soon as possible. The Matabeles are heard outside the line of defense. Most of the Matabeles at Buluwayo got there by pretending to be seeking the protection of the whites, and the latter fell into the trap.

An outbreak must soon occur. It is held by 1000 men. This is not correct. The number of fighting men at Buluwayo is under 900, and of this small number, comprised with the 15,000 Matabeles in the vicinity, 20,000 are supposed to have been dispatched to hold Mangwe Pass, a steep die with angular turnings, which can be rendered impregnable. Other dispatches announce that a strong force of the remaining 600 whites intended to leave Buluwayo yesterday to attack the Matabeles, composed of Le Bengula's crack Imbezzi Regiment, from which the native police, who have been shown to have started the rebellion, were recruited. This regiment is looked upon as the most formidable in or out of Matabeleland, numbers and efficiency. A number here cannot understand why such a sortie is permitted. It is feared that the awful mistake of Isandula will be repeated. The British may be enticed into the bush and there engaged with overwhelming numbers, and the body of the Matabele army may be hunted against Buluwayo and sweep over it, in spite of the defenses and rapid-firing guns. The great trouble at Buluwayo seems to be that a majority of the leaders are daredevils, prone to ensure the enemy first and estimate numbers generally too late.

In addition to the Imbezzi, it is known that two other formidable Matabele regiments are in close proximity to Buluwayo, and it would seem that a major battle is imminent. The former has been drawn up and is being carried out with skill, day by day, which gives additional color to the report that the Boers are behind the whole uprising. The latter, Buluwayo, according to advices received yesterday, has five seven-pounders, twelve half-pounders, three Maxim guns, one 50-pounder and one Nordenfelt rapid-fire gun. The two latter having been sent to the front by the British, I think, George.

In addition to these are several old field-guns of little use except to consume large quantities of powder, and there are about thirty Lee-Mitford rifles available, besides the rifles of scouts, volunteers etc., which are of all kinds. The bulk of the majority are Winchester, carbine and Martini-Henry. For the latter the supply of ammunition is fair, but there are only about one million rounds of cartridges at Buluwayo, and those who have seen the Maxims and other rapid-firing guns estimate that at the rate of hundreds of shots to a minute, know that a million cartridges will not suffice to enable Buluwayo to be held for any length of time against the repeated attacks of a fierce popular army.

To make matters worse it is whispered that 20 million rounds of cartridges have already been drawn upon, and it is hinted that supplies must reach Buluwayo shortly if the front may be approached. It is here that the writer of the column of ammunition. It is known, however, that 5000 pounds of rifles and ammunition left Mafeking on March 26 under a strong escort, and this ought to reach Buluwayo shortly.

Then another difficulty arises. It is known that the food supply of Buluwayo is slowly giving out, mainly owing to the numbers of natives in the town has to be fed. In addition to its white inhabitants, there are 100,000 natives and the forces occupying the outlying posts. It is true that eighteen wagons loaded with provisions are reported to have reached a spot about sixty miles from Buluwayo, where they are "laagered," awaiting a favorable opportunity to get into the town. The general who communicated with me said that this sort of the provision train is to be strengthened; then the wagons will be pushed to Buluwayo.

Thus, it will be seen that steps have been taken to relieve Buluwayo of its provisions, and 500 volunteers have been sent to the front. Delay in spite of everything must occur, and it is probable that the Matabeles may capture the provisions and ammunition trains, in which case the situation in Buluwayo would be desperate indeed.

It is stated, on the other hand, that the chiefs of the native tribes of Bechuanaland, which the relief forces must traverse, have been peaceful in their demeanor up to the present time, and are helping the movement. In consequence, it is expected that numbers of wavering chiefs, who remm'ren' Umlid, will join the British when they hear that troops are going to the front.

There is no change in the situation, so far as the Boers are concerned. They are still in the same position, and the operations appear for a great struggle, and it is feared here that the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Chamberlain, thought it necessary to postpone the visit of Emperor William to Vienna, was not such a success in strengthening the friendship between Austria and Germany as expected. It is asserted that Emperor Francis Joseph and his Cabinet are piqued at the length of Emperor William's stay in Italy, and the mutual affection displayed there. The question of the future German support of the Austrian Balkan policy was reportedly broached without eliciting satisfactory German assurances, and a thorough understanding on the subject between Count Baden and Prince Hohenlohe was not effected. The Austrian Minister for Foreign Affairs, Count Gotschowski, and all the minor Austrian officials received a German decoration but Count Baden, the Premier, did not.

Another question left undiscussed, is that of the British-German relations. The German press has had an outburst of temper, owing to an article in the Morning Post of London, which is considered offensive to Germany and the government, it is said, in spite of Austria's wishes, is determined to pursue a policy in South Africa dictated by its own interests entirely, until Great Britain is brought to her senses. Herr Horff, the German representative, has received minute instructions in view of the latest developments in South Africa.

The immense sensation which resulted from the pistol duel between Count von Kotze and Baron von Schrader, resulting in the death of the latter, and a number of other incidents, has apparently seemed to promise an early abolition of the duel in Germany. In both the Reichstag and the Prussian Diet, the master will be broached, and a demand will be made for new and stringent anti-dueling laws. Herr Richer, and others, are in favor of such a law, and a debate in the Reichstag. Public opinion is overwhelmingly in favor of the abolition of the duel, and it is understood that the Emperor will shortly modify the prerogatives and duties of the military courts of honor, giving them full power to peacefully adjust quarrels and differences of opinion, instead of merely advising.

The visit of Emperor William to Dresden on Thursday next, on the occasion of the King of Saxony's birthday, has been signed by a gala date, a military band and a master street procession, in which the Dresden art students will take part. On Tuesday next the imperial court will remove to Potsdam for the summer, the Empress will stay confined to the side rooms of the castle school at Ploen, where they will remain for three years returning home only for the usual holidays. Near the little schloss, where the Prince will live, a small railway station, in log huts, has been built, and the children will be taught in company with the other pupils in the schoolroom of the private residence.

Oscar Kauffman's book makes public some curious details regarding the private life of the imperial family. It appears that the Emperor contracts with his chief butler for meals as much per head. An ordinary dinner costs less than $2 a plate, exclusive of wine, but on festive occasions the cost of a dinner varies from $10 to $20. The butler has three meals daily. A meat breakfast, a hot lunch and a six-course dinner, the latter always being disposed of under an hour. On the menu are hock, Bordeaux and champagne, dairies, ad table wines and the like. The butler holds 2000 bottles of fine wines and 4000 casks of other wines and liquors.

A government edict just published greatly restricts the liberties of university students. Thereafter they must obtain permission from both the police and their rector before holding public or private meetings.

During the week there were violent hail and snowstorms in the German Highlands, the mercury registering 22 degrees in the Eifel Mountains, with deep snow.

On Friday the carpenters at work on the Berlin Industrial Exhibition struck for a mark an hour, and a mark and a half for overtime. Mr. Edwin, German governor of Southwest Africa, reports that he fears there will be a rising of the Hereros who number 50,000, and who are giving a great deal of trouble. The German forces only number 600, and are quite independent of the country. If we break out it will be the biggest colonial trouble Germany has yet had.

The Reichstag Oleomargarine Bill, as enacted in committee, renders the importation of American oleomargarine virtually impossible. There is little prospect of its adoption.

The government bill to prevent unfair competition in trade was considered by the imperial Diet on Friday. The bill provides for the establishment of persons revealing secret, which the government has divided into two categories; first, those learned by workmen in the ordinary course of service, and, secondly, those whom employers have exacted promises of secrecy. The Diet refused to pass a measure to this shape and adopted a modified form by which a penalty is imposed for the betrayal of business secrets during time of service and with intent to injure their employers or compete with them. The Diet declined to accept the paragraph by which editors of newspapers were to be held responsible for fraudulent or deceptive advertisements, and passed the clause exempting editors from punishment when it is proved that they were not the ones that the advertisements were deceptive.

One Result of War in

Pacific Mail Transportation Has

Steamers Refused Entry at Some

COSTELLO FOUND GUILTY OF MAN-SLAUGHTER—GOV. FRANKLIN TAKES THE OATH—DAMAGES AGAINST THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—It is more than likely that a shot or two will be fired across the bow of the Pacific Mail steamer City of Para before she again returns to this port. The vessel will sail for the turbulent Central American ports Saturday. She will be instructed to make an effort to enter the ports held by the Nicaraguan insurgents on his way back from Panama for the purpose of landing freight. The officials of the company argue that when the insurgents are assured that the freight is made up of ordinary merchandise, and not war materials, the steamer will be allowed to dock, even though she may meet with a somewhat hostile reception when she attempts to enter the harbor.

As the result of the revolution which has been in progress in Nicaragua for several months, the Pacific Mail steamers, as well as all other strangers, have been denied entry at San Juan del Sur, Corinto and several less important harbors. A great deal of freight has been shipped from New York, Philadelphia and other cities on the Atlantic side for those closed ports, but as it could not be handled, it was piled up on the Pacific Mail dock at Panama and remains there.

According to the last reports received from Panama, there were seventeen freighters standing in the depot with goods for Corinto alone, and in addition, about 1500 tons of merchandise lying on the wharf. Almost as much more is waiting there for transportation to San Juan del Sur.

A FREE MAN.
"Dick" McDonald Is Released /
His Own Recognition.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—After two years' imprisonment, "Dick" McDonald, formerly vice-president of the Pacific Bank, is a free man. He was released on his own recognition to day by Superior Judge Bahrs. There are still three more indictments pending against McDonald, but it is unlikely that they will cause him any trouble. One indictment is for perjury in swearing to the false statement of the Pacific Bank. He has been tried once for this, and the jury disagreed. It is improbable that he will be tried again on this charge.

The District Attorney was given one week to decide whether he would prosecute McDonald further. Every one believes that his troubles in connection with the failure of the Pacific Bank are now over.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—Charles D. Lane has again struck it rich. In a recent Arizona investment he has secured a second Utica, and if the development continues he will be a millionaire and his partners will possess one of the most productive gold-bearing properties in the United States. The indications of the Fortuna, as the principal mine of the group named, are equal, if not superior to the famous Harque Hills in the Colorado River. The purchase price was a trifling compared with the results already obtained.

The development has been phenomenally rapid. There are between $600,000 and $1,000,000 in sight. Next month Lane will be able to ship a large quantity of bars of gold superior in weight and exceeding in value any ingots of the precious metal yet run into molds.

THE A.P.A. Outgeneraled.
WOODLAND, April 18.—The Republican County Convention declared in favor of a high tariff, reciprocity and free silver, and rejected the resolution to the latter, but after a hard fight. No preference for President was declared. The delegates-at-large are Mark Chamberlain and J. O. Chalmers. The district delegates are Ed Archer, C. D. Moore, J. W. Thomas, J. A. Moffett and C. L. Richmond. The A.P.A. probably had a majority of the delegates, but they were outgeneraled, and beaten at every point.

THE LOSS OF THE BLAIRMORE.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—The court of inquiry which has been investigating the loss of the Blaormore, which capsized in the bay, made a report today exonerating Capt. Caw. The court finds that he was not to blame for sending the six men who were drowned into the hold, and that the accident was caused by the ship fouling her cable. It will be some time before tide turns the vessel over. The Blaormore still lies at the bottom of the bay, and no attempt has been made to raise her.

ROUGH ON RATE.
SACRAMENTO, April 18.—The jury selected to try Simon Raten as to his sanity this evening rendered a verdict within ten minutes, that he is insane. Raten had been arrested for murdering and robbing two Japanese with whom he had been traveling. After his trial, it was concluded that he was insane, and a new jury was selected. He will be committed to the Stockton asylum, where he will remain until such time as the asylum authorities conclude that he is sane. At that time he will be returned to Sacramento and the murder trial will be resumed.

COSTELLO GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.
STOCKTON, April 18.—John Costello was tonight found guilty of manslaughter for having killed James Loughran at the Sargent ranch on the 13th of last January. He killed the boy during a quarrel which resulted from too much drinking during the afternoon, and Costello claims that he was acting in defense when he shot the man for whom he had been at work. The defendant relied implicitly on his story of self-defense, and it took the jury but half an hour to reduce the verdict as low as they succeeded in getting it.

DISORGANIZED BY DEATH.
PRESCOTT (Ariz.), April 18.—The receipt of news announcing the killing lately of Nick Palmer of South Africa, formerly of this city, a well-known capitalist, and a member of the stock exchange, W. H. Johnson, a railroad man, has the effect of disorganizing a large party of gold-hunters who were soon to leave this city for the Transvaal regions. Several miners who have lately left this section are reported as slain there.

ARIZONA UNDER NEW RULE.
PHOENIX (Ariz.), April 18.—Pursuant to authorization received this morning from Washington, Gov. B. J. Franklin took the oath of office at noon today at the executive chamber. Chief Justice Baker was the administrator. The oaths were being witnessed by a large number of citizens. Democrats are in the city from all parts of Arizona, the expectation being that a clean sweep will be made in all offices of the Territory.

THE SEBORN MURDER CASE.
WILLOWOOD, April 18.—No progress was made in the Seborn murder trial today. Each side exercised two non-empirical challenges, and the day closed with only one juror in the box. An adjournment was taken until next Monday afternoon.

CAMPMEETING IN THE CAPITAL.

(CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES)

BY CY WARWICK.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—"I'm cool Siloam's shady rills." How fat the hill is.

We live in the southeast, here in Washington, down by the tired Potomac, where the banks and the rents are low. It is called the tired Potomac because it runs all the time and never gets anywhere. For six hours it flows toward the ocean sea, and then the tide comes up and pushes it back into the bogs again. It is usually the color of a brickyard after a rain, and the doctors say it is conducive to good health. But the doctors live here, and there is one doctor to every twenty people. It is in perfect just as well for the doctors that the water is cleaner as it is. Mind, I don't say it is unhealthful. It is all right for drinking purposes—that we know, for the doctors, who are experts, have said so; but it is not fit to bathe in. Sir Julian was obliged to sink an artesian well at the top of the hill, in order to have clear water for his bath. We seen a band of hazel-splitters come rolling down the Virginia hills, but when they reached the water's edge they took a sip or two, gave a few degustating grunts, and trotted back up the bank again. It was all right for drinking purposes, but what they really wanted was a bath.

Aside from the Potomac and the medical experts—locally known as the "microbe chaser"—the most amusing thing in Washington is the negro. Not the stereotyped political negro, the sordid, spectre-like Sunday-school negro, nor the scrappy, noisy negro, who is always loaded down with rascars and apple jack, but the soaring, acrobatic camp-meeting negro—he beats them all.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—Tom Sharkey has expressed the opinion that he can whip Choynski in a linah fight, and would willingly engage in such a contest. Now that he has met Smith; Greig and Choynski, Sharkey very naturally has an exalted opinion of his ability as an exponent of the manly art.

Choynski intends to stay here several weeks, and is anxious to meet Sharkey under the same conditions as they met on Thursday night. The friends of Choynski are confident that but for the foul blow he received in the groin in the first round he would have finished Sharkey off in less than five rounds. Nothing has been done in regard to another match, although there was much talk about the match yesterday.

—BRING SUCCESS.—

IS THIS KIND OF ADVICE GIVEN BY

PROF. B. W. ARLING.

He is the greatest clairvoyant of the age; a remarkable man, a true prophet, a star. His power approaches the marvelous, and he might well be termed the Isiah of the nineteenth century.

He has been pleased and delighted with his wonderful advice. Millions visit him daily and are made happy.

His clairvoyance is the admiration and wonder of the most skeptical.

Gifted by nature with wonderful mediumship, a remarkable man, a true prophet, consulted on many problems relating to the welfare of the human race. He gives advice on business, tells of your friends and enemies, even your enemies, and all pertaining to love suits, speculations, investments, insurance, love, courtship, marriage and divorce settled; loves, quarrels, relationships, etc. He can bring you a happy marriage with the one of your choice. He locates mines, etc.

The trouble of uncertainty should be his concern. Thousands of families have been reunited by his influence. Thousands of hearts made glad by his predictions.

Look beyond the clouds; never despair; all of them are pleased and delighted with his wonderful advice. Millions visit him daily and are made happy.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

A fine programme has been prepared for the grand concert to be given at Hazard's Pavilion Wednesday evening. The orchestra, which includes fifty men, a number of whom are from San Francisco, will play Moszkowski's "Marche d'Entre," from Boabdil Cherubini's "Overture Anacreon," a Hungarian fantasia by Brahms-Tobani, and America.

The grand chorus of 300 and the orchestra, will render "With Sheathed Swords" from "Naaman," by Costa; "Watching Over Israel" from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," and "Bright as a Day" from the "Queen's Lace Handkerchief" by Strauss. Mrs. Maude Berry Fisher, who was selected by Sousa to sing at the Midwinter Fair, will sing "Le Farolat d'Amour" by Gounod, and with Mrs. Charles Dickman, one of San Francisco's leading vocalists, a "Maiden's Prayer" by E. Meyer-Helmann. Mrs. Dickman will also sing a Hindoo song by Bemberg. In the intermission minute from the second Arielle scene by Blitzer, Mrs. F. C. Gottschall will play the harp obligato. Andrew Bogart, one of San Francisco's best soloists, will sing "She Alone Charmed Me," "My Sunshine," "Agnes Del," and "Veni Creator." Nearly all the fine Easter music given at this church will be repeated today. The rite of confirmation will also be administered by Bishop Montgomery, there being an unusually large class this year.

At St. Vincent's Church this morning Mr. and Mrs. Josef Rubis will sing, the soprano singing Dion Romany's "Veni Creator," to which Rubis will play the violin obligato. Joseph Nobile will sing the tenor solo, "Et Incarnatus Est," and Miss Scanlan will sing Gilligan's "Agnes Del."

Nearly all the fine Easter music given at this church will be repeated today. The rite of confirmation will also be administered by Bishop Montgomery, there being an unusually large class this year.

The famous Schubert male quartette of Chicago, who have made for them a reputation second to none in America, and who have been doing concert work for the past twenty years, assisted by one of the best local soloists in this country, have been engaged to give one of their concerts in this city on Tuesday evening, April 28, at Simpson Tabernacle.

A number of new musical publications have been prepared for La Fiesta. Miss Deborah Synnott has composed a song for soprano, called "My Queen," and dedicated to the Queen of La Fiesta. Miss C. G. Hatchett has composed a carnival march, Frederick Blanchard has produced a tuneful march, "Our Italy," dedicated to La Fiesta. Roberta, the leader of the American Concert Band, which will participate in La Fiesta, has written a march, and dedicated it to J. F. Francis. Charles Charles Tyshen has also composed a carnival march which is as yet only in manuscript, and will be played exclusively by the Blanchard-Fitzgerald Band.

BALDWIN STILL MISSING.

There is Little Likelihood of His Being Prosecuted.

Nothing has yet been heard from Frank L. Baldwin, the missing collection agent. William said his men have made a complete examination of the homes of the firm, and that altogether Baldwin got away with the sum of his money. Fred Steele, the City Auditor and the financial backer of the affair, is firmly convinced that there is some woman in the city, Mr. Hale, who has taken Baldwin for a number of years, up to the present, for she never knew him to do anything dishonorable in any way.

An excellent way to save money is to subscribe to the M. K. System, which makes it possible to read fifty leading periodicals for 50 cents a month. This sum also entitles the subscriber to the use of a novel, and both magazine and book can be taken home, and exchanged as often as desired.

ST. LOUIS UP TO DATE.

NEW FACTS ABOUT THE CONVENTION HALL GATHERED ON THE GROUND FROM THE ARCHITECT.

Two Hundred Thousand Tickets and How They Will Be Distributed—Beautiful Souvenir—Graphic Pen Pictures of the Interior of the Hall. The Demands of the Newspapers and the Immense Daily Telegraphic Outfit—St. Louis' Railway Facilities.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ST. LOUIS, April 16, 1896.—I have come from Washington to St. Louis to give you a bird's-eye view of matters relating to the Republican convention. I am fortunate in having been here at the same time Col. Joe Manley, the leader of the Red forces; Col. William H. Hahn, McKinley's chief aide de camp; Gen. Clarkson, the head of the Allison movement, and Senator George, who is for the Republican party in general. These men have just held several secret sessions, and they have materially changed a number of things which had been considered settled. They have altered the architectural plans of the hall, and the plans already published in the newspapers have been modified to make them better suited to the purposes of the convention. The sketch sent with this letter shows the convention building as it will be actually when completed. The changes have been broken, the foundations are laid, and a large gang of laborers are now busy putting it up. I went out to look at the work this morning. The building is not far from the Union Depot, and will have many of the conveniences of a hotel. It is just next to the new City Hall, and is accessible on two sides by street car lines, which connect it with every part of the city. When I visited it hundreds of laborers were at work, and the building was rapidly increasing as it cut the lumber which is soon to resound with the clapping of tens of thousands of enthusiastic hands. A hundred hammers were pounding nails, and a hundred odd carpenters were cutting and fitting the great timbers into place. The work is progressing rapidly. It must go very rapidly in order that the hall be finished in time. It will be completed within two months, and when finished it will look as solid as though it had been there for years. It is known to be covered with stanchions, the same material as that which formed the outside of the World's Fair structures at Chicago. This material will be nailed on to the woodwork in square blocks, making the convention hall look like marble, save that its outside steps will be of wood.

THE CONVENTION HALL.

The expense of the building will, you know, be about $1,000,000. It will cost $200,000. The architect's contract is for $200,000, but at least $750,000 will be required to finish up the interior. Notwithstanding this, the building will have a life of only six months. It is being erected on land devoted to the convention, and the contract provides that every bit of it shall be removed by October 1.

Let us stop a moment and take a look at this $700,000 sacrifice on the altar of party politics. First, its surroundings. It will be a palace rising out of a lot of two-story brick buildings, mostly brick and frame. It will have as its architectural brother the magnificent new City Hall, of granite and terra cotta brick, which has cost more than $1,000,000, and which is one of the finest public buildings of the United States. The City Hall is 300 feet long and 150 feet wide, occupying one large square containing 1,000,000 cubic feet of ground. I judge, about four acres of ground. The elevation is about six feet above the street, and there is quite a large space running about the buildings between them and the sidewalk. The shabby houses opposite the hall on the opposite side of the streets surrounding the City Hall block. They look like second-class lodging-houses. At one corner there is a saloon, and just opposite the main entrance of the convention hall there is a vacant lot, fenced by a ragged billboard, picturesquely set off with advertisements of "police" oasis, plug tobacco and special brands of whisky. The building will cover more than an acre of ground.

Do you know how big an acre is? In city blocks are not so large. Well, then, the convention hall will cover considerably more than an acre, and it will look like a great four-story marble building with an extra story or canopy rising from its top in the shape of a ridge roof. This canopy will be made of plates of glass set in frames. It will cover the space in the center of the convention hall, which has been assigned to the delegates and the alternates. It will be so made that the glass can be raised, giving the hall perfect light and thorough ventilation almost as though it were open to the sky. In addition to this, there will be a series of ventilating fans, which will move the air within the hall in constant motion. The sides of the hall will have many windows, and there will be more than one hundred exits and entrances. It is estimated that the hall could be emptied within five minutes if a panic should occur.

In going over the plans with one of the architects I asked as to the strength of the structure. He told me there was no question but that it was strong enough to hold the people, and to stand any kind of a strain. "It is," he said, "six times as strong as it need be and everything will be built in the most substantial manner. It will be entirely of wood, but a broad band of timbers will be constantly on hand with their engines steaming, and the least sign of panic should occur."

The seating capacity of the hall will seat 13,601 persons. It will have, it is said, the largest seating capacity of any building ever erected for a convention, with, perhaps, the exception of the hall in which James A. Garfield was assassinated in 1881. This is said to have had 15,000 seats. The Minneapolis convention hall had about 11,000, and a great part of the view in that hall was shut off by posts and pillars. There will be no such posts in this hall. I am told that there will be a great one, and that the acoustic properties of the hall—means of great sounding boards—will be such that one can hear the speaker at the opposite end of the hall. The seats will be bought for the occasion. The seats will rise up on four sides of the square pit which forms the ground floor, and which is occupied by the delegates and the alternates. This pit will be about one-half an acre in size. In the middle, in three great blocks or rows of chairs, with aisles running through them, will sit 924 delegates, those from each State being together, and those from each State being alphabetical order, beginning with Alabama and Arkansas to the right of the speaker, and ending with the States beginning with W, the place of each State being marked by a pole with a little flag bearing its name. On the occasion of the taking care of the tickets, the Hon. St. Louis will be in charge, and will cost a man to stay at the convention, and something of the arrangements which the city has made for the guests, I will write in my next letter.

Therefore

done by hand. The tickets to the convention will be the most beautiful ones ever made for a convention. The engraving upon them will be as fine as that of a bank note, and as there is no limit to the amount of space, there will be a coupon upon it, every man who goes into the convention will be able to keep his ticket as a souvenir. The ticket, the artist's drawing of which I saw, is small, but it is a column of a newspaper, and about the width of a postcard.

On the back of it there is a picture of the convention hall. On the front, the left half of the card has a beautiful engraving of St. Louis, showing the bridge over the Mississippi, and on the lower right-hand corner there is a small engraving of the log cabin in which Gen. Grant lived on his farm near St. Louis when he was poor and unknown and hauled wood into St. Louis for sale. On the face of the ticket will be the words "The Republican National Convention, 1896, Joseph Manley, chairman," and also the words "Guest's ticket" or "Delegate's ticket," or "Press ticket," as the case may be.

HOW THE TICKETS WILL BE DISTRIBUTED.

Three thousand five hundred of these tickets are to be given to the Business Men's League of St. Louis, through whom the money for building the hall was secured. There will be three thousand tickets given to the alternates, and the remaining 1,000 will be given to the delegates. The floor and the lower bank will seat about 800 people. The upper bank, which is a gallery about forty feet wide, running around the hall and extending over the roof, will seat 600. At the time of the convention the delegates will thus be surrounded by banks of gallily dressed humanity. They will be enclosed, in it were, by hangings of fashionable women and distinguished men—gardens more wonderful than the hanging-gardens of Babylon.

THE OFFICERS AND THE PRESS. In front of the delegates and alternates, on a platform about as high as a piano, will sit the chairman, or president of the convention, with the secretaries and tally clerks on each side of him. Back of them will be the national committee and the distinguished men of the party, while on each side of the president, and a little lower down, will be the tables for the work of the press. Each press table will accommodate several men. Each table will have a pneumatic tube connected with it, running to the telegraph offices which will be located under the seats at the front of the building, and the reporters write their dispatches they can send them to the wires, sheet by sheet, as they finish them. There are to be 400 seats for the press. There will probably be 1,000 newspaper men at the convention, but there are also many who are doing telegraphic work, and not for dross and fancy writers. Arrangements are being made with the telegraphic companies to handle a large amount of matter. Estimated that 40 papers of the United States will take an average of one column or two words a day from the convention, the wires will be loaded down with at least 2,000,000 words daily. One of the volumes of Blaine's book contains, I judge, about 300,000 words. The matter sent out from this convention daily would, if published, make about ten volumes of that size.

THE CONVENTION SEATS AND HOW TO GET THEM.

I have spent some time at St. Louis with the Hon. T. M. Byrnes of Minneapolis. Mr. Byrnes is the sergeant-at-arms at the Minneapolis convention. He has been chosen the sergeant-at-arms of this convention, and he is by all odds the most important member of the convention. The wires will be loaded down with at least 2,000,000 words daily. One of the volumes of Blaine's book contains, I judge, about 300,000 words. The matter sent out from this convention daily would, if published, make about ten volumes of that size. St. Louis, for people say that this is the largest horse and mule market in the world, and they could stable 10,000 such animals. There will be 10,000 men from Indianapolis and its surroundings. Col. Hahn told me there will be at least 150,000 strangers in St. Louis at that time, and there is a probability that this number will be exceeded. There will be at least fifty thousand from Missouri. Col. Hahn tells me that there will be from twenty to thirty thousand from Cleveland, and that Cleveland will send a delegation of at least three thousand. From fifteen to twenty thousand people are expected from Iowa to shout for Allison, and among these will be 100 men who will ride into the city on white horses. The question of taking passage on white horses will not be a great one for St. Louis, for people say that this is the largest horse and mule market in the world, and they could stable 10,000 such animals. There will be 10,000 men from Indianapolis and its surroundings. Col. ## Mrs. Overton's Grateful Tribute.

I cannot find words to sufficiently express my gratitude for the English and German Expert Specialists who have so miraculously restored me to health. A year ago I was a helpless invalid from female troubles and could not walk across the room or dress myself. I had tried many good physicians till my condition became so hopeless that I gave up entirely and patiently awaited my doom. The misery and wretchedness of those years seem light today—but many women will realize what I have suffered.

Under great persuasion I began treatment with the English and German Expert Specialists. I had but little hope in physicians left—but the first month's treatment encouraged me and I went on—gaining slowly each month, till today I am a strong, well woman. I shall never be able to repay the Specialists for all they have done for me—but my testimony may lead other suffering women to find relief as I have. Very gratefully,

MATILDA OVERTON.

The Two Rivals.

(Chicago Record) The most gratifying feature of the information set forth by the canvassers making the school census is the indication of a growth which is steady and natural. The census of 1894 showed a total population of 1,687,000, and the percentage of increase for one of the fastest growing wards of the city and applying it to the whole population an estimate based on the present census, as far as it has been completed, would show a total of about 1,715,000. But it is the memory of the sudden change of the work that this is an underestimate, and there is every likelihood that in the final count Chicago will have proof that it has 1,750,000 inhabitants.

These figures do not quite place the city par with New York, which in its last census numbered 1,801,725. New York now makes a claim to over 2,000,000.

If her claim is justified she still has a small degree of advantage which is greatly offset by the comparatively slow growth of the city.

The Emperor of China has two names, a private or personal name "Kwang-Tien," which however, according to the demands of Chinese etiquette is never spoken. It may be written, but in reading the reader must use a synonymy in pronouncing it. The Emperor's public name is Kwang-su, which means "illustrious succession."

In the race for first place, however, New York has annexed a considerable portion of the Atlantic seaboard, the population of which, by the census of 1890, was 8,100,000. When Greater New York has become a reality it will thus have a long lead on its competitor. But this nominal increase can be regarded with complacency in Chicago, where the memory of two years of depression and comparative inactivity, the city has made a splendid bound forward without the aid of annexation or consolidation or any temporary cause of increase.

There is to be introduced to us this week at our local vaudeville playhouse an artist in ventriloquist who is said to be a world-beater. A Chicago paper said of him the other day:

"The smallest Frenchman Chicago has seen in a long time is a pleasant-faced little man who is giving nightly entertainments at the Imperial Theater on the North Side. He is known as M. Segomer, and he has brought over from Paris the latest sensations that delighted the patrons of the music halls where Yvette Guilbert made her reputation. He calls himself the 'animal talker,' and he makes a small menagerie laugh, speak, and sing on the stage. Tigers, elephants, dogs, bulls, parrots, pigs, caper and roll their eyes as they speak in a language that is understood by everybody. Men and women sing funny songs and tell funny stories and make faces at the animals. One of them, a darky, plays tunes on a flute and keeps perfect time with his feet and head, and rolls his eyes so naturally that he's easily mistaken for a human being."

Her dancing is said to be as bewitching as she is beautiful in face and figure. In San Francisco she has been quite as much the fat among society people as the great Carmenita was in New York.

Ames, the elastic acrobat, semi-professional balloon and hand-dancer, will appear in his novel acts. Mr. Ames will invent what he terms a transformation bouquet. He is the inventor of the mechanical need in its mechanism, and ideas in dress, costume, and electrical effects are copyrighted and absolutely refuses to permit others to imitate him. At the close of his act he will introduce his funny sand dance on his hands in which he is safe and secure. On October 1st, Antonia Brum and Almerie, the French dulists, will appear in their chieff French songs, and are sure to make a hit.

The three Marveilles will appear in their pantomime grotesques. The San Francisco Call of them: "They is good, they is good, they is good with words to cover any idea of this act; each must set it for himself and no two persons will describe it alike."

The only team from last week's bill that remains over is the Comedy Brothers, who are the talk of the town. They are without doubt the most startling and comical clowns that have ever been seen.

A pleasing feature of the bill for this week will be the orchestral music. Director Schmid is preparing a special programme, in which Spanish music will predominate.

Many of the tricks are performed by the magician, and are of slight value, but the novel and ingenious use of electricity, the most startling and comical effects are produced. A one-legged soldier walks out on the stage with crutches, and sings a patriotic song in a trembler, quavering voice, holds out his hand for a hand shake, walks off. An old man and woman sing a duet, and the tiger and the elephant join in the chorus.

Meanwhile, M. Segomer moves around the stage among his pets, directing in a general way but apparently taking no part in the performance. This little Frenchman came over from Paris a month ago, and spent three weeks in New York. Like Yvette, he is in a state of great wonder at the liberality and appreciation of Americans.

"O ye Americans! He is reech every where," he said. "He spend as much money in one night as a Frenchman spend in one week. In New York he clap loud all the time, and one, two, three times in one night he is forty, fifty franc on stage. Ze Frenchman he no do zat. I get reech in vase queek this in America. O yes, I love ye Americans! It is so easy to—what you call—labor? ah, no! so easy to work—to deliver up! He make me valre happy!"

Peter F. Daly comes to the Los Angeles Theater for five nights and matinees Thursday and Saturday, commencing Tuesday evening, April 21, with his latest success, "The Night Clerk." In this piece, judging from all reports, Mr. Daly has made a great success. Some idea of the very amusing situations may be gathered from the following:

The first act opens in the bachelor apartment of Owen More and Lord Willie West. Young More has just inherited by her father, and Barney Brogan, a friend of the elder More, out of sympathy for the younger fellow, comes on the scene disguised as a valet. William Lumber, an actor, gets possession of a large sum of money, leaving letters written by his wife, Adelade Starr, to Owen More, and after the appearance of an antiquated spinner and a couple of policemen, the scene ends with the arrests of nearly all the principal characters.

In the second act Owen More impersonates the captain of the Police Station to which the culprits are brought, and in the process of searching them, assigning them to their cells and the like, introduces a great deal of absurdity and business, meanwhile getting back the compromising letters stolen in the first act. These in turn pass to Barney Brogan and from him to the antiquated spinner who is in love with him, and some very funny situations are the result.

The scene of the third act represents the interior of the Hotel Plaza in New York City. Here Owen More is found as the night clerk, and all the characters are brought in by the cross-purposes of the story. The hotel is the property of Barney Brogan, and the Adelade Starr. The Company is engaged to give an entire performance on the roof garden of the building. After the letters have caused unlimited trouble, a clever device of the advance agent of the Adelade Starr Company unravels the tangled skein, and the curtain falls on everybody happy.

Fiesta week will be the last of the Carleton Opera Company's engagement in this city. For four weeks this excellent organization held the boards at the Burbanck, and never in the history of local theatricals have such thoroughly good performances been given at popular prices. That the people appreciate the efforts of Managers Carleton and Cooper has been proven by the large audiences which have kept up throughout the extended season. At no time have either of the gentlemen named spared either expense or endeavor when a pleasing point could be gained. New scenes have been put in, costumes purchased, and endless rehearsals gone through with to get the operas produced in the best form for the public's gratification. No less than seven different operas have been sung: "Fra Diavolo," "The Bohemian Girl," "The Lily of Killarney," "Mickey," "The Charity Girls," "Pinafore," and "Nanon."

During the coming week the entire repertoire will be repeated. Tonight "Mikado," Gilbert & Sullivan's unique and always popular oriental jingle will be rendered, followed on Monday evening by "Hauff's masterpiece, "The Bohemian Girl." Because of the festa matinees will be given on Tuesday and Thursday, instead of Wednesday and Saturday. At the Tuesday evening performance the Mikado will be heard again, and finally, Friday evening "The Mikado" will make its farewell bow, and on Saturday the engagement will close with "Fra Diavolo."

On Wednesday evening "Nanon" will be presented for the last time. Thursday matinée will witness the final performance of "The Bohemian Girl," and Thursday night the curtain will drop, bringing down many tears during the past week will be heard again, and finally, Friday evening "The Mikado" will make its farewell bow, and on Saturday the engagement will close with "Fra Diavolo."

STORY OF TWO GIRLS AND MISS CHIPMAN'S PECK MEASURE.

When Their Misunderstanding Was Cleared Up Phoebe and Daisy Discovered that the Old Maid Had a Kind Heart.

(CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.)

"I'm wondering how the Throop girls will get along with Miss Chipman," said Mrs. Moseley to her caller. She looked over at two houses across the street, a large white one and a little yellow one.

"The Throops have just moved here," she explained, "from Underhill. There's just Phoebe and Daisy and their father. I've got a sister in Underhill, and she knows them. She says they're good girls, and smart as steel-traps. They've got ambition. They want to go to the Normal School at Bradley, and get an education and teach school."

"I'm kind of curious to see how they'll make out neighboring with Augusta Chipman," said Mrs. Moseley, with another chuckle.

At that very moment the Throop girls were seated at Miss Chipman's best round table, beneath the clear, bright yellow faces shone out like stars.

They were returning Miss Chipman's formal call, which they had not enjoyed much. It had been a business call, anyhow. Phoebe said Miss Chipman was "a bit of a bore," and the more apples and potatoes than she could use herself, and that she could accommodate them with those articles at the market price.

Accordingly, they had brought back "We would like some apples," said Phoebe. "We thought we would make a bird's-nest pudding for supper."

"We do all your housework, I understand," said Miss Chipman. She was middle-aged. She wore her hair drawn back tightly and gathered into a diminutive knot.

"Oh, no," Daisy answered, "and go to school."

"We want to go through the high school here and go to the Bradley Normal," said Phoebe.

"We're going to be teachers," Daisy explained. "Good ones."

They chatted away cheerfully for some time.

Then they followed Miss Chipman down to her well-stocked cellar. Miss Chipman looked sidewise at the measurement of the broad shoulders.

"We thought we'd take a peck," said Phoebe.

"They're selling at 25 cents," said Miss Chipman. "I—er—I generally use my own measure. She picked up a peck measure and a wide, heavy wooden dipper and emptied it into their measure.

Phoebe flushed hotly. Daisy bit her lip. Phoebe paid her, and they made short work of getting up the cellar stairs.

"Come again," said Miss Chipman. "Thank you!" said Phoebe stiffly. When the door had closed behind them the Throop girls looked at each other. "Did—you—ever!" Phoebe ejaculated.

"The mean, horrid old thing!" cried Daisy. "Did she think our measure had nothing in it?"

"She seemed to!"

"I believe hers has a false bottom," Daisy avowed.

"Oh, no," said Phoebe, though her heart burned within her. "She's honest, I suppose."

"She means," Daisy subjoined.

"I—er—I've a great good mind to take her old apples right straight back to her!"

But there was supper to be considered. Phoebe stirred the batter, and Daisy sliced the apples; the pudding was a great success, and their father praised it.

The Throop girls did their faithful best to make a cheerful home for their father, who worked hard, and did for them all his scant means allowed. And tonight she buried Miss Chipman's eyes, and her peck measure, deep beneath their happy talk and laughter.

There came a knock at the door, when their father had gone downtown after supper. The visitor was Ozro Martin, from the porthouse two miles away, and he brought a box and loose-jointed, with an unkempt, poor of red hair and a ludicrously-twisted face. He came to the village frequently, begging his meals from house to house. He had applied to the Throop girls for a place to live, and he bore them in mind; for he had sold them the Northern Spies.

Phoebe let him have a chair by the fire, and the remainder of the birds' nest.

"Shopped in to Miss Chipman's, next door to Ozro, in his own peculiar speech," she faltered. "Ozro Martin wanted to burn your house up out of spite. He thought you were mean because you wouldn't give him a place to live, and he came to our house, and—er—I sympathized with him. I told him you were mean—and"

"Daisy!" cried Phoebe. But Miss Chipman had given him a sharp look.

"It's Shanty that's at it," Ozro agreed.

"We know that," said Daisy, warmly.

"She's fearfully stingy!"

"Daisy!" cried Phoebe. But Miss Chipman had given him a sharp look.

"I'll go on," said Daisy. She sat straight and stately, and a red spot blushed in either cheek. "I'll tell it all—I—I'll go and get it."

She stepped to the door, stumbled on the step outside, and returned, set before Miss Chipman a plate containing half an apple.

"I did it," Phoebe said. "I did it. Phoebe didn't want me to, but I did, and I made her come with me, and we left it there at the door, and that's how we came to see Ozro Martin setting the house afire. I had to tell you. There!"

Miss Chipman read the words scrawled upon the paper. And read them again.

"Pleasant evening, isn't it?" said Phoebe, considering that enough had been said about Miss Chipman.

But Daisy could not forget her. When Ozro had gobbed the pudding and departed, and they had spread their books and slates on the table and plunged into their "home work," Daisy gave signs of a wandering mind. Now and again she tittered spasmodically, and at last she jumped up and bolted off, with a glad and mysterious "wait a minute!"

She came dancing back, after a little. Giggling triumphantly, she set down before Phoebe a small plate.

"Ozro dear!" Phoebe gasped, in shocked remonstrance. But she hid her laughing face.

"I am," said Daisy, "and you're going with me. She'll find it in the morning. Come on."

"We won't!" Phoebe protested.

"Yes, we must. She was mean, you know she was! She deserves it. It'll do her good."

She pulled Phoebe to the door by main force. They ran out, bareheaded, and down the fern-bordered path and made their way through Miss Chipman's lawn, and their suppressed giggles trailed behind them.

"Well leave it right here at the kitchen door," Daisy whispered. "She'll sleep in the morning."

She stepped to the door, and set the door down softly.

She felt her sister's hand clutching hers. "Look!" Phoebe cried.

The woodshed adjoined the kitchen at the rear. Its door stood open, and within she saw a strange, bright glare.

They rushed to the spot. Something loomed up blackly before them—a tall figure standing on a barrel. A frightened yell burst from the apartment. The fiery light shone on the red hair and the pale, skewed face of Ozro Martin.

He stared at them; then, with a choked and stammering word,

"I'll go over and save my house in the morning."

"We'll leave it right here at the kitchen door," Daisy whispered. "She'll sleep in the morning."

"And there were tears in Miss Chipman's eyes."

"There!" she said. "Now, do you like plum preserves and candied cherries and fruit cake? We will have some, dears."

"Well," said Mrs. Moseley, some weeks later. "If I ever! I wouldn't have believed it."

"I wondered, along to the first, how the Throop girls would get along with Miss Chipman."

"Get along with her? Why, friendly ain't the word for it. They're the Throop girls all over them half the time and I see Miss Chipman going over to the Throops' twice a day, sometimes. The Throop girls have knit her a blue scarf, and she wears it; wears it all over town. She that never wore anything before but a black bonnet."

But Mrs. Moseley was in total ignorance concerning Miss Chipman's peck measure and the remarkable traits of her husband.

"There's a girl near a new woman, Augusta Chipman is. Those Throop girls have done her a sight of good, that's the long and short of it. They do say she's going to help 'em through the Bradley Normal School, that they're so crazy to get to it. I wouldn't be surprised if she took her back."

"Well, I don't know as it's quite a miracle, but it's next to nothing to it."

ON GUARD.

FEATHERED SPIES WHO WATCH OVER ANIMAL FRIENDS.

Sportmen Are Obliged to Reckon with These Keen-eyed Bird Guards When Following the Chase—As House Guards.

(CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.)

The California mocking bird is a very intelligent fellow, and is sometimes of material service to other animals. In following the hare with hounds, I have heard a series of shrieks from a mocking bird at which a hare would dart from its concealment and bound away; and so often has this occurred that it would appear as though the mocking, bright-eyed creature was a friendly sentinel on guard who had thus given the hare a warning.

In driving through one of the lower countries of Southern California, I once came to a field of stubble in which there were forty or fifty black pigs on the back of each of which were one or two black birds. The latter espied me immediately and uttered an alarm or warning at which the pigs looked up and then ran away, some still carrying their sentinels on their back. Such an exhibition might easily be considered accidental, but I have seen it repeated on several occasions, and that certain birds do serve various animals which they affect that can be little doubt.

GUARDING MOOSE AND OXEN. A familiar example is seen in our moose, which allows various birds to run over it, in all probability in search of insects. The hunter stealing upon the animal may find it asleep upon the myriads of locusts which covered the ground, and the body of nearly all was a fly-catcher. The observer, who was a naturalist, at which the ox and antelope dashed into cover.

FOR BIG GAME.

That these feathered guardians are attached to the animals is suggested by the pertinacity with which they cling to them. A hunter had succeeded in approaching the rhinoceros when the latter gave the signal of retreat, dashed the big creature, followed by the hunter. Some of the birds hovered over the flying animal, but several clung to its hide, often brushed off in the flight through the brush, but renewing their position despite the loss of many feathers. Finally the wild boar killed the rhino clustered in the neighboring trees. The following day when the hunters returned to skin the animal the little guardians were found sitting on it, and when the natives appeared they uttered their alarm cry and even brushed their wings in the faces of the men and rhinoceros in their efforts to avert it.

The sluggish hippopotamus and the elephant often serve as a perch for a small white heron, which is extremely watchful, rising at the slightest alarm, the flapping of their wings being the signal at which the animal steals quietly away to be rejoined, in all probability, by the white sentinels.

AS HOUSE GUARDS.

The wattle starling stands guard on various birds and has seriously interfered with the plans of many sportsmen. This singular guardian is not confined to birds exclusively; birds are known to extend a limited protection to other birds, an interesting example being found in Northern Africa, where a copper-colored fly-catcher has been observed standing guard upon storks. The latter were walking along sedately, feeding upon the myriads of locusts which covered the ground, and the body of nearly all was a fly-catcher. The observer, who was a naturalist,

LIVING RAT TRAPS.

How Big Snakes Make War with the Army of Rodents.

The Marvelously Quick Stroke of the Puff Adder.

Prof. O'Reilly Tells How They Catch Mice and Rats, and Relates a Few Exciting Stories from His Own Experience.

(CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.)

On grass-covered plains and hillsides in South Africa you frequently come across spots apparently thickly inhabited by some small running animal. Little paths wind about and cross each other in every direction, and may well be compared to the streets of a city on account of their proximity to each other and their numerous crossings. Each path is clearly marked by being almost destitute of herbage. If you trace them up, you will find that they all end in holes just large enough to admit a half-grown rat; and if you beat the thicker bunches of grass, you will probably see a small rat-like animal running at a quick little trot along a pathway to the burrow. He is a vole, very like a rat or mouse in appearance, but much less nimble and much more delicate than either. He is larger than a mouse, and considerably smaller than a rat. His fur, too, is much longer and thicker in proportion, being more like that of a rabbit in its texture. Boys, both white and colored, in South Africa, consider them very good eating, and "enjoy them roasted in embers whenever they can catch them." Many small voles live in such country, and the colonies are so numerous that you cannot travel a mile in any direction without crossing one. But the vole has a worse enemy than the boys. If you approach a colony, and carefully survey all the runways, particularly if there be a bush or two, you will see the snake which alluded—a living rat-trap—lying in the path, and the very sight of his broad, flat head and sinister cat-like eyes will make your blood run cold.

He is the terrible puff adder, short-tailed, with a long, thin, long-fanged death-dealing alike to vole and to man—and even to the prowling lion, should he in his wanderings set paw upon the deadly reptile. He is beautifully colored, having a ground-work of velvet black, with sil-moons of yellow and crimson spots, the same marked along his back from head to tail. More than once I have found puff adders lying thus in vole paths, and there is no doubt that they devour great numbers of them. Nor will a puff adder be satisfied with a vole alone; when he has swallowed his first catch he looks around a little, and then lies in wait for another, which he catches just as he did the first. His method of securing them is this: He wanders about till he comes to the colony. His tongue tells him by the touch of his nose where the best place is in the vicinity. For a while he searches busily about. If he catches sight of a vole he lies quiet in or close by the path. He knows by instinct that his remaining motionless for a long time will attract little notice. The vole, seeing the snake moving, is probably frightened, and runs to his hole, but finding that he is not pursued he soon emerges and looks around for the snake. He discovers the reptile motionless. "Dear," thinks the vole, "or 'sake, may be" and cautiously approaches to investigate. Inch by inch he ventures, sniffing, into closer proximity to danger; he even runs around the snake, who never moves in the slightest. At last the unfortunate little vole is so curious to master its prudence: it ventures too close. The living spring of the snake's and swallowed it down with considerable difficulty; for he was occupied in the process for the full space of forty minutes—the rat being, as has been mentioned before, more than usually fat.

The rattlesnake, the copperhead, and other deadly snakes of the viper class all catch rats and mice in this manner; and none of them will ever harm an animal which they fear on account of its strength or fierceness. Nevertheless, he will strike it to death, as the puff adder does, after it has been set out to find its prey and squirrelled it at her leisure, if it prove to be every way desirable.

Twice, during last summer I found on the Palisades in New Jersey, copperheads lying in the sun of the sheltered field-mouse, an animal very similar to the South African vole. On another occasion I found one in the vicinity of a nest of wood mice. Having brought him home, I saw during the day that he had devoured his prey on one of them. He was probably waiting for a second when I encountered him. Indeed, he would probably have eaten up all the elders of the family as fast as the vole came out to take air, and would have gone to his hole to polish off the rest of young ones.

Among my copperheads, in captivity I saw a nice instance of this last summer. Now, while the copperhead dines chiefly on frogs during spring and early summer, he turns to mice in autumn, for mice, and will put himself to considerable trouble and into no small danger to get them.

Having a full-grown copperhead in a large cage with dead leaves and rocks on the floor, I saw him one day in his first opportunity to give him a feast of mice. A mother mouse with six young ones, had made her home in a covered cigar box. The young were helpless infants, but the mother was strong and enterprising; for besides getting a large hole in the box, had collected within it a considerable nest. The copperhead was lying coiled among the leaves, when I gently withdrew the glass and placed the box in one corner of his cage, closing the glass slide of the front again, so that neither the young nor the reptile could get out into my room.

The copperhead at first took no notice of the box; perhaps he was asleep and didn't see me put it in the cage. After a few minutes the mouse came out to explore, and in its perambulations ran over the coils of the motionless snake.

GREAT SPRING GAME BETWEEN TWO TEAMS OF GIRLS.

The Oldest Athletic Club for Women in This Country Has Challenged the Germantown Eleven to Meet Them at the Wickets.

(CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.)

A year or two ago, a year ago indeed, cricket was one of the games that women in this country could look on at, but not indulge in.

We have changed all that now and "ladies' cricket matches" are taking their place among pastimes for the maidens of this end of the century.

Although it is only a few months ago that a woman's eleven had started and this the Livingstone Staten Island—so have the damsels become and so skillful as fielders, batters and bowlers, that they have challenged another ladies' eleven of Germantown, Pa., and a match game between the two teams is now being arranged and will come off in a few weeks.

A NOVEL SUGGESTION.

All the young women of Staten Island, with athletic proclivities, belong to the Ladies' Club, the oldest and largest association of its kind for women in this country. They play tennis, croquet, golf and badminton, and not long since, one enterprising damsel proposed a suggestion, why don't we play cricket?

Why not, I say? There is only one way to solve the problem and that was by investing in bats and balls and learning all about a "popping crease" and "byes" and "wides" and "maiden-over" and "long field on" and "long field off."

Just at first the Staten Island eleven—the feminine eleven—preferred to play without too many spectators; indeed, it was noticed that the time they chose for batting and bowling was when the mothers and their cousins had gone over to the other side of the island to play golf.

But the next thing these same brothers and cousins knew they were playing a match game of cricket with their eleven, captained by a girl, and behold the masculine cricketers were beaten—possibly because they played left-handed and batted with baseball bats instead of cricket bats.

The history of cricket as played by the young women of Philadelphia is similar. Upon occasions, young girls have played cricket "just for the fun of it," of late, they have gone into the game in dandied earnest, with Miss Agnes Morgan captain of the eleven.

FAMOUS WOMEN CRICKETERS.

At Staten Island there are two teams—the Livingstones, captained by Miss Marion Bruce Heineken, and the Richmonds, captained by Miss McNamee.

Of the 200 members of the Ladies' Club, twenty-four play cricket.

As to their instructor, they have brought in a brother of Lohmann of Surrey, Eng., who is noted as being one of the best all-round cricketers in the world.

The usual two-pound-four-ounce bat is used and the regulation five-and-a-half-ounce ball. Inasmuch as fielding the girls have attained a remarkable degree of efficiency in throwing the ball—which is

FOR SMALL FRY.

SUMMER FASHIONS APPROVED BY LITTLE MAIDS AND MASTERS.

The Best Fabrics and Styles Are Those that Can Stand the Wear and Tear of the Laundry—Sunbonnets Are to the Fore for Every-day Use.

(CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, April 13.—New wash clothes for children—rather apparel—so-called—are both prettier and more sensible than ever this year.

There is little of the wash-tub air about the way in which some of the dressiest of the little costumes are trimmed, but, though of the most flower-like delicacy, the new colors are enduring.

FOR VERY YOUNG PEOPLE.

There are solid pique in sky blue and apple-blossom pink that make smart and useful summer suits for maids from 4 to 10.

White Hamburg embroideries in edging and insertion trim the reer coats of these appropriately, outlining big turn-back revers and elaborate cape collars and edging or simulating cuffs for the sleeves.

The new skirts have usually strapped seams, and for the oldest ages are cut to hang in front with a sash.

of the day, the open guipure insertions, wrinkled ribbon stripes and embroidered dots and figures.

Trimmings for these little frocks are likewise grown up to a degree. White and unbleached guipure laces edge revers, collars and Bretelles of all sorts and with knots of taffeta or velvet ribbon made a fine line of rich silk.

Indeed, color is a feature of clothes for even the smallest girls, through many delightful little toiles are still seen in pure white.

PARISIAN MODELS.

The French models in particular evidence leaning toward color, and there are Indian cotton and batiste costumes showing Dresden effects that are extremely charming.

With sheer white textiles, muslins, Swiss, plain batiste and Indian lawns, there are often linings of colored silk with waist and shoulder knots of ribbon to match. A summer suit of white dotted Swiss lined with pink, rose or blue silk, is a novelty for girls from 3 to 5.

There are also Swiss with pink and blue dots that with dainty decorations of lace and rosettes of baby ribbon appear in white, muslin, Swiss, shirred sun bonnets, and poke bonnets.

The dressiest costumes for girls under 6 are made very short, reaching barely to the knee. In the Paris models the majority of these are high-necked and backless, with a dashing wide bunching at the back to give the look of a bustle being worn.

IN THE TUB.

In the care of the complexion it is invaluable, particularly in summer, when a few drops squeezed in the water in which the face is washed removes all greasiness, and leaves the skin fresh and glowing. All remedies based on the cheeks before going to bed and allowed to dry there will remove freckles and sunburn and whiten the skin, besides giving it a charming smoothness and softness to the touch. This should be done about three times a week.

Such complexion as are afflicted with enlarged and blackened pores, these enlarged pores are due to deficient circulation of the blood and are to be greatly aided by vigorous rubbing with a coarse towel every time the face is washed.

Those who lead a sedentary life find the circulation feeblest about the nose, lips and temples, and these parts of the face should be energetically rubbed and kneaded several times a day. When the pores become distended the fine invisible hair that surrounds them and covers them blackens them. Mere ordinary face washing, even when warm water and soap are used, is not sufficient to remove this dirt in the pores, but the vigorous acid of the lemon will cleanse and carry off all such unsightly blemishes.

FOR THE SKIN.

The very latest cosmetic is the lemon. In countries where they grow as freely as apples do in the temperate zone, this fact is appreciated, and their virtues availed of; but their admirable qualities are worthy of wider knowledge. Lemons are not so costly, even in the coldest countries, that women may not easily afford to use this tropical aid to the toilet.

FOR THE HAIR.

In these days of globe-trotting, of enticing winter resorts, of country homes, of summer cottages and attractive homes at mountain and seashore, the rich and Penates of city houses often left to their sole companion's loneliness for many months at a time. This was when these household gods were a perplexing burden to their owners, anxiety for their safety, concern for an otherwise joyous career moment.

But one can be able to estimate the enormous load of anxiety that that silent, invisible, omnipotent force of nature, electricity, has lifted from the shoulders of even the rich and great.

Now, by means of a burglar-alarm office and paying a comparatively nominal sum, any householder may leave his home for an indefinite period with the absolute certainty that his possessions, real and valuable, will be as safe from depredation as though he himself were mounting guard.

Not a door or window can be opened, not a partition or wire cut, in fact, the slightest disturbance cannot take place night or day without immediately transmitting a signal to the central office, where crooks shun a house under the supervision of the burglar-alarm company, as the superstitious shun ghosts.

As soon as a house left in charge of the burglar-alarm office, such as mine of burglar-alarm sounded. The two men who were dispatched post haste soon returned to report that a brickbat had been thrown through one of the windows of a beautiful house; perhaps wantonly but more probably to ascertain to what extent the burglar alarm would work.

The burglar alarm is an experience not to be repeated by a bib or bertha fall of the same.

FOR THE TEETH.

Half a teaspoonful of the juice of the lemon squeezed into a glass of water and used for brushing the teeth gives the mouth the same feeling of cleanliness that the lemon bath gives to the skin.

It is particularly grateful when sickness makes the mucous and salivary secretions of the mouth impure. Not more than half a teaspoonful should be used, as a powerful acid is bad for the enamel, but on occasion the proportions may be increased, as lemon is an active deodorizer, and will remove the smell of onions or tobacco from the mouth.

WHEN WASHING THE HAIR.

As hair wash and tonic it has no rival. For every winter pleasure a large, juicy lemon should be cut in two, the head dipped into a bowl of water, after which the chill only must be removed, and the water made of the same temperature as the air—and the lemon rubbed and squeezed vigorously among the roots and along the length of the hair.

Soak and rub the head well in this special property committed to their charge. In view of this perfect equipment, perhaps it is not strange that the ladies in the more exposed condition on dressing-table or bureau, a valuable watch under a pillow, costly bric-a-brac and silver on mantel and sideboard; they have even found valuable furs which unrolled and upon one occasion a roll of money loose on a table.

FOR COUNTRY USE.

For every-day summer use there are the usual delicately figured and striped linen lawns, cambrics and percales that, come weal or woe, appear every year.

As usual, too, these are trimmed with the serviceable Hamburg embroideries, the solid standbys of the laundress.

All are made as simply as possible, ready made in the shape of Yester Valentine lace and satin and point d'esprit footer are the edgings most used on the gowns and bodice decorations.

Something About Bridal Veils. Modest Maids of Persia.

The Story of the Oriental Maid and Her Canine Companions—How French, English and German Women Love.

(CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES)

NEW YORK, April 13.—As there are weddings and brides and grooms everywhere, one is forced to wonder what the new woman will assume in place of the wed-ding veil. Naturally, she won't wish to wear that frivolous, white tulle thing fanned now; for it is too feminine. Its very origin is essentially womanly. It is claimed for it by the Orientalists that it is a remnant of the eastern canopy; but it is also claimed for it that it had its origin in the behavior of Penelope, who, when she was asked by her father what she wanted when she had gone with her husband, did not answer, but drew her veil over her face to hide her blushes. This silence was equivalent to the yes which is said by the modern maiden, only more audibly, and at the altar. There is no doubt about it that the most becoming veil is the soft one of shimmering tulle, that is cream-white in shade, and cloud-like in effect. A bride wants to seem enveloped in it; it must fall behind her and in front of her, like part of the heavens, surround her until she really seems something too good for everyday food, or an ordinary man. The lace veil inherited from our grandmother, which is frequently bought from a smart second-hand shop, is expensive but not becoming. It makes a girl look matronly, and it will suggest the lace lap-pets worn by Her Royal Highness Queen Victoria of England, a lady for whom we have the utmost respect, but whose appearance is not suggestive of a bride.

Although you and I would think a bride looked awful in anything but a white veil, opinions differ. The happy Roman bride hid her blushes under a veil of delicate silk. The Persian maid intensified her modesty, as painted on her cheeks, by wearing a veil of rose color. The Greek girl went her one color, and made her blushes look al-most like the fire of hell. Of course, we are of the opinion that the dowty pleasure of wearing her old fashioned wedding over her collar. Of course, a wedding frock can always be cut to ad-vantage to make baby's cloak, but—but, some people are sentimental.

HEALTH AS A VULGAR BLESSING.

OUR FREE OFFER

To the Thousands Who Will Visit La Fiesta—Dr. Shores Gives Each Patient a Wholesome Spring-Time Remedy.

Extra Hours During Fiesta for Out-of-Town Patients Desiring to Consult that Eminent Specialist Free.

With the dawning of La Fiesta, the gladmost carnival season of Los Angeles, with all the gay pageantry of a classic revival of the glittering pomp and circumstance of historic epochs, garlanded with the fairest offerings of art, poesy and song, and brightened with the bloom and perfume of myriads of flowers, thousands will come to the City of the Angels. To the hundreds of out-of-town patients Doctor Shores extends a hospitable welcome. He asks them to come to his offices and make them their headquarters, and will gladly give them all attention and extend every courtesy. For the benefit of those wishing free consultation, Dr. Shores's offices will be open this week continuously from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. every day. Come and consult him when in the city this week. DR. SHORES WILL CURE YOU.

A Generous Gift.

Realizing that the change of seasons incident to the springtime is especially trying on the human system, Dr. Shores has very generously decided to give freely to every new patient and each old patient renewing during the month of April, one large bottle of Dr. Shores's Tonic and Blood Purifier.

For Family Use.

These bottles sell at the drug stores for $1 each. The need of a good reliable blood purifier at this season is apparent to all, and Dr. Shores's Tonic and Blood Purifier is the best. This valuable remedy is not included in the regular supply of medicines furnished free to all patients, but is added thereto as a special offering by Dr. Shores.

For Use in the Family.

Good Deeds Bear Fruit.

Good deeds bear fruit, and in the fruit are other seeds that in their turn bear fruit and seeds. Great thoughts are never lost, and words of kindness do not perish from the earth. Self-sacrifice brings its compensations, and Dr. Shores in honestly laboring for the good of his fellow-men has earned their gratitude.

Merit will always win, and Dr. Shores's modern American treatment for Cataract and other diseases has cured thousands of sufferers in Southern California. For two years the good work has been going on. It is the same old story told every week in the grateful statements of happy men and women, released from the illsome thralldom of disease. New names, new patients, new troubles—but the same old story over and over—"cured," "healed," "relief at last." No matter what the disease, the result is the same—it yields to the masterful treatment of Dr. Shores, who is always the friend of the sick and suffering. Read the evidence offered today and note the difference between the testimony of honest people and the claims made by would-be competitors of the People's Doctor.

If you have Cataract or any other deep-seated chronic disease come and see him, and he will cure you. If your case is in the hands of advanced medical science. The Spring of year is the most favorable time then to treat Cataract troubles. Climatic conditions are of great assistance, and a month's treatment now, at the popular rate of $5 per month, all medicines free, is as good as three months' treatment later in the year. Remember that during April every patient taking one month's treatment receives, in addition to a full month's supply of medicines, one bottle of Dr. A. J. Shores's Famous Tonic and Blood Purifier.

Beautiful Women in Society.

Diane de Poitiers, Madame Recamier and Ninon de L'Enclos were famed for their marvellous beauty. They possessed all the charms and graces of feminine loveliness and stood peerless as the fascinating beauties of the gay French court. We have just as beautiful women in California today. Los Angeles is proud of her pretty women, but admiration instantly changes to disgust when from ruby lips, framed like the arch of Cupid's bow, comes a foul cataract breath. No beautiful woman should long suffer with this affliction, for Dr. Shores can cure her, and banish that blighting breath. He has cured thousands of women suffering with cataract. Those are ever ready to testify their gratitude to Dr. Shores, the modern medical benefactor. The full treatment, including all medicines, inhalers, etc., only costs $5 per month. His parlors are daily visited by scores of ladies suffering just like you, and Dr. Shores cures them. Ask any of his patients and they will tell you.

Power of Kind Words.

Kind words are better than jewels rare. The honest and successful treatment of cataract by Dr. A. J. Shores in accordance with modern ethics of medicine, has attracted the greatest attention of many leading physicians. Not having the elaborate but necessary apparatus in their offices for fully treating cataract, these broad-splashed physicians send their cataract patients to Dr. Shores's office, knowing they will be honestly and successfully treated by that eminent specialist. Kind words are greater conquerors than armies. They are balm to the unfortunate sufferer who has struggled with disease for years, fallen into the hands of unscrupulous fakirs and been robbed, and finally as a last resort applies to Dr. Shores, who kindles their hearts with the kindly tidings that they can be cured, for DR. SHORES CURES CATARRH, and all deep-seated diseases, a $5 per month; medicines free.

Beware of Fakirs.

The remarkable success of Dr. Shores in curing the sick in this community has attracted the attention of numerous unscrupulous medical fakirs and patent-medicine men, who seek to蒙骗 the public by imitating Dr. Shores's system of advertising. This makes it necessary for Dr. Shores to warn the public that he has no branch office in Los Angeles. He has only one office in this city, and that is located in the Redick Block, corner First Street and Broadway, where he personally administers the Dr. Shores treatment. If you go to any one who imitates his style of advertising, you do so at your own risk, as there are many imitators, but only one Dr. Shores in Los Angeles, who is the only possessor of his system of treatment and administers it personally. Take no substitutes.

DR. ANDREW J. SHORES.

Dr. Shores is the only specialist who advertises his credentials. He is not ashamed to publish his name and school of graduation. His diploma is regularly indorsed by the California State Medical Board, a copy of which can be seen at the Courthouse and the office of the Los Angeles Board of Health, and in his office. Dr. Shores is a graduate of the medical department of the University of Louisville, Ky., one of the oldest and most reputable medical schools in America, being founded in 1837. His diploma is regularly indorsed by the Medical Board of California. Come to Dr. Shores if you want a true specialist's service. He has treated thousands of cases of cataract and kindred diseases right here at home in Los Angeles, and his grateful patients who have been restored to health and happiness by his common-sense American methods of treatment, are always ready and willing to testify to his worth and efficiency as an eminent and successful physician. Inquire as to his standing.

HENRY GARD'S STORY.

Henry Gard, the other resident of Los Angeles, who saw J. Wilkes Booth take the life of President Abraham Lincoln, in a native of England. He was born in Devonshire July 31, 1835, being now in his sixty-first year. He began life as a cabinet-maker's apprentice in his native country, and emigrated to the United States at the age of 18, settling in Illinois and working at the carpenter's trade till the outbreak of the civil war, when he enlisted in the Eleventh Illinois Infantry Regiment for three months' service. He re-enlisted in the Fifty-third Illinois for three years and served till the end of the war, participating in the battles of Shiloh, Corinth, Vicksburg and all the important engagements of Grant and Sherman's campaigns in the South. He was taken prisoner before Atlanta, July 22, 1864, when Gen. McPherson was killed, and hurried off to Andersonville prison, where he was kept in chains for six months, until exchanged. He rejoined Sherman's army at Atlanta September 28, was made first sergeant of an engineering corps and commissary orderly, and assigned to the important duty of recruiting negro troops, a service which he performed successfully. He returned to his home at Louisville, Ky., in November, 1865, and had to stand two days in line before he got a chance to gaze for the last time on that grand and noble face which looked magnificent, even in death.

"Many things connected with the assassination I did not learn until long afterward, although I was in Washington during all those stirring events. It is a great pity that you are apt to know about it. One thing has often occurred to me, and that is that nobody seems to know what became of Booth's body."

Mr. Gard remained in Washington till after the grand review of troops. Then he made a trip to Baltimore and New York, returned to Washington, went thence to Louisville, Ky., in command of a company of colored troops; left the service and permanently returned to his old home at Ottawa, Ill. Next year he went to Denver, Colo., where he remained twenty-two years, engaged in the meat business, and seven years ago came to Los Angeles, where he is living a quiet life, happy in his old home, having a comfortable home, a loving wife and family of bright and dutiful children. Mr. Gard is full of reminiscences of the war, but witnessing the assassination of Lincoln is the most interesting of all his experiences.

With the sun down, come dashing,

The great bands are thunderously crashing;

Portentous it looks.

All the world is crashing.

It's better than wheat.

It cannot be beat.

It's dandy and dandy;

More gaudy and gay;

Than the whiskers of Handy.

During one act the curtain fell, and we heard a pistol shot. We all thought it was in the play. I saw a man jump over the railing of the President's box to the stage, and I still thought it was part of the play—but it did not take me long to find out differently. Two flags were draped around the President's box, and the assassin, who had caught in one of them as he jumped, was hanging him to break his ankle. I afterward learned. When he reached the center of the stage he shouted something which I did not understand, so I leaned over to Grant's Irishman, and whispered, "What did he say?"

"Giant type," replied he.

"What does that mean?" I inquired, for I had no knowledge of any foreign language.

"Death to tyrants," said the orderly, who was up in such things.

In the mean time people were shouting, "Boo! Boo!" and some men were climbing over the footlights on the stage to try to stop the murderer, but he made his escape at the rear of the stage.

He did not know who Booth was, or what he had done, but first, I supposed something was wrong, and said to my companions, "Why, that fellow has a knife in his hand."

"You've no idea how quiet every-

ACHE AND PAINS ARE THE DANGER SIGNALS THAT YOU ARE SICK AND NEED TREATMENT.

Read the following symptoms over carefully, mark those you feel in your case and send or bring them to Dr. A. J. Shores, and he will tell you whether you can be cured, free of charge.

THE HEAD AND THROAT.

This form of catarrh is most common—resulting from neglected colds—quickly cured with little cost by Dr. Shores's famous treatment.

"Is the nose stopped up?"

"Does your nose discharge?"

"Is there a sore throat and tender?"

"Is your throat dry in the morning?"

"Do you sleep with your mouth open?"

"You can't sleep now—don't let it run into complications."

THE BRONCHIAL TUBES.

When catarrh of the head and throat is treated or wrongly treated it extends down the windpipe to the bronchial tubes and often attacks the lungs. Quickly cured with little cost by Doctor Shores's famous treatment.

"Is the nose stopped up?"

"Have you pain in side?"

"Do you raise frothy material?"

"Do you spit up little cheesy lumps?"

"Do you feel you are growing weaker?"

"Is black necrosis threatening these warnings—stop the disease before it reaches the lungs."

THE EARS.

"Is your hearing failing?"

"Is your ear discharging?"

"Is the wax dry in your ears?"

"Do you hear some days better than others?"

"Is your hearing worse when you have a cold?"

"Don't neglect this until your hearing is irreparably destroyed. Doctor Shores can cure you now."

KIDNEY DISEASE.

Results in two ways, by taking cold and by overworking the kidneys in separating from the blood the catarrhal poison which is deposited in the kidneys with little cost by Doctor Shores's famous treatment.

"Do you get cold feet?"

"Do you feel feverish?"

"Do you feel miserable?"

"Do you get tired easily?"

"Are your spirits low at times?"

"Do you have rumbling in bowels?"

These are the several signs of kidney disease. If you have any or all of them, seek Doctor Shores and be cured.

OF THE STOMACH.

Catarrh of the stomach is usually caused by swallowing mucus which drops down from the head and throat at night. Quickly cured with little cost by Doctor Shores's famous treatment.

"Is there nausea?"

"Do you belch up at night?"

"Are you constipated?"

"Is there coating of tongue?"

"Do you blow up after eating?"

"Is there constant bad taste in mouth?"

Now is the time to permanently cure. Doctor Shores is curing hundreds every week.

EXTRA HOURS FOR FIESTA.

Take advantage of the extra hours during Fiesta when Dr. Shores's offices will be open continually from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day. Dr. Shores again cautions the public to be sure to see free treatment fakers, who advertise to treat you free, and then rob you for medicine.

"I would not take $500 for the benefit I have derived from Dr. Shores's treatment," said Conductor Henderson of 2404 East Eleventh street.

"I feel like a new man, and want to tell the whole world what Dr. Shores has done for me. He is the only doctor I know fulfills the promises of cures made by him in the newspapers. For several years I had been suffering with catarrh of the head and throat, and could get no relief from the doctors until I consulted Dr. Shores. I now have a good appetite, and am in perfect health. I cannot say too much for Dr. Shores's treatment. I gladly tell all my friends to consult him."

UNPRECEDENTED NUMBER OF GRANT BIRTHDAY CELEBRATIONS—GALENA'S INTERESTING SERVICES.

The Grant Family Today—Artistic and Costly Statues Soon to Be Formally Dedicated—Progress of the Work on the New York Monument—The First Statue Erected in Memory of Grant—The Grant Tomb—the Most Magnificent Grant Memorial.

(From a Special Contributor to The Times.)

There will be more celebrations of April 27, the birthday of Gen. Grant, this year, than ever before, but in all the land there will be more interesting memorial services on that date than those to be held at Galena, Ill., his home at the breaking out of the civil war. It is not that the programme will be more elaborate or imposing than elsewhere—indeed, simplicity is always a notable feature of the exercises at Galena on the 27th—but the interest will be stimulated by any special novelty.

In point of fact it is the people who attend the exercises, rather than the exercises themselves that always contribute most interest to the Galena Grant memorial services. For among those Philadelphia another, also showing the significance of the great reverence for the general's memory shown by the people in the erection of statues and holding of memorial services every year on his birthday. In conversation with the writer recently, Col. Grant spoke at some length upon this point. His presence at Grant memorial services is of course in great demand and the invitation received by him this year could only be numbered by the hundreds. From Manhattan Island alone he received fifteen, but he was obliged to decline all these, since he accepted one from Philadelphia month ago and will be present at the services there. named as a guest of a certain officer the expenses fall on the officer who extended the invitation. The same rules that obtain in the wardroom hold good in the steerage among the junior officers and men, and the same spirit of the crew. The members of the crew always feel somewhat in touch socially with the officers when every day they see the Officers of the Deck take their soup and eat a bite of their meat before they served out to them. It makes them feel that the social distinction between them in the matter of food, whatever it may be in the matter of drink, is not so great after all.

The crew have a social life observed by the wardroom officers as to the matter of calls. Whenever a new captain comes aboard each officer is expected to pay formal call on him. When an admiral arrives, or another ship is added to the squadron, the duty of calling is delegated to the admiral. If every officer were expected to call on every other officer the series of calls would not be burdensome, but might interfere with discipline. Therefore, a card of calls is appended in each wardroom, and this is accompanied with its engraved card representing the officers of the entire mess, pays the required social duties. If a new ship has arrived this committee pays a call on all officers from admiral down. The call is returned in the same way as it is tendered.

There are certain mythical personages on every ship that have a distinct standing in the social intercourse of officers and men. One of these is "Charley Noble." Noble's initials are cut on Charley Noble in his crew, simply because no ship exists without a galley stovepipe. Charley Noble is that stovepipe. The relation of well-cooked food to the social life on shipboard is so close that the cook is a person of note, who often becomes indispensable, is a matter of great concern to every one on board. Charley Noble is always discussed seriously and he also comes dangerously near to being a serious topic of conversation on deck.

It is when a new paymaster, a clerk, or other minor officer comes on board and is taking his first cruise that there is unusual solicitude for Charley Noble. The new clerk learns that this Noble fellow is a true sailor, a good man, and in vain to find him. On the recent cruise of the Cincinnati down shore near Key West, a pistol shot was heard one day. Soon the paymaster appeared at his office and said to his clerk:

"Did you hear that shot?"

"Yes, sir," said the clerk, "and I was wondering what it could have been."

"Well, Charley Noble has shot himself; committed suicide," said the paymaster. "Just hurry and make up his accounts and get everything in order charged to him, so that we may send the papers to the auditor. It is customary in such cases."

The clerk made a grab for his book of daily entries and began a search for Noble's name. He failed to find it. Then he seized his lines, and just then the paymaster had business in another part of the ship. Twenty minutes later the clerk hunted up the paymaster and solemnly informed him that he could not find that name. Noble's account anywhere, and soon the Cincinnati was in a long gulf between end to end. The cook had fired a pistol in Charley Noble to clean out the soot and insure a better draught.

This is this spirit of fun that has given the name of "Jimmylegs" to the master-at-the-boat of the ship, and the appellation of "Old Pig" to the captain. The captain is invariably called "Old Man" to every one on the ship, and it is probable that he would not resent overhearing himself called that, provided it were not too loud, and the captain could pretend with good grace that he had not heard it. Although the life of a naval officer is usually very busy one there are always places where he can stow away some recreation of which he is very fond. He can find some time to read, some time for pleasant games. If he desires to be alone he simply goes to the captain to his room, and he is as thoroughly separated from his fellows as if a wall of greatest height and thickness intervened. When he is at sea like all sailors, his thoughts are largely of home and port. His strict observance of social requirements at such times is the mark of the real sailor, when he may be sure of the average naval officer. He is by instinct and training always a gentleman. His social requirements are the outgrowth of that consideration for others which marks the gentleman, everywhere, but which is hardest to observe where men are crowded together, as they are on a naval vessel.

POLICE COURT.

Willie Horan Will not Enjoy Fiesta Week.

Willie Horan is an ill-trained small boy. He went forth to enjoy himself, and did so by throwing stones at a Chinaman. He was arrested and tried before Justice Owens. Yesterday His Honor passed sentence, condemning theurchin to pay a fine of $20 or spend twenty days in jail. Willie can't raise the money, so his fiesta week will be a gloomy one.

J. B. Rogers, a Main-street saloon-keeper, was arrested two days ago for throwing a man out of his saloon. The battery case against him is a weak one, and yesterday it was continued.

Frank McCann, a saloon-keeper, was arrested a coat and vest from a radio was yesterday condemned to wield pick and shovel on the Hill-street cut for 100 days.

The battery case against Arthur Rose was dismissed.

Josephine Antonio, Josephine Medad and Marguerite Harsamore are three fat girls who have been engaged by Officer Shields several days ago for purposes of soliciting. The Antonio woman and the Harsamore woman are old offenders, so they were sentenced to pay fines of $15 each. Josephine Medad was fined $10.

Justice Owens took the battery case against Howard Babcock under consideration.

The two cases against Fred Yorke of being drunk and of violating the hitching ordinance were continued until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

A Jim's trial for peddling without a license was set for Monday afternoon.

Jackie Rogers, a saloon-keeper, was fined $10 for violating the swill ordinance.

A. G. Bechtel assaulted another man with a whip on Spring street at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The little Dutchman will be tried at 10 o'clock Tuesday.

On payment of $2.50 costs, the case against John Doyle of keeping a vicious dog, was dismissed.

Officer Eriest had two wheelmen up before Justice Owens, charged with riding on the sidewalk. J. P. Mastad paid a $5 fine. It was shown that G. L. Mastad, whose partner was accused of the same offense, was guilty of doing wrong, as the sidewalk on which he rode was not legally a sidewalk, because it was on an unimproved street.

Sixteen drunks were disposed of, with fines ranging from $1 to $10.

An old physician retired from practice, having given up in his last by an East India company, the formula of a medicine ready for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, asthma and all the lung-aching affections. A positive and radical remedy, however, debilitated his nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful qualities, and he died in his bed.

His son, Dr. Cullinan, however, conducted himself with good temper and propriety. He entered upon the contest in the belief that there was a "call" for him in Illinois. There is obviously a change of tide and he can now sit back peacefully upon the sedating waters.

FIELD OF POLITICS.

Quay's Change of Heart the Chief Sensation.

Some Instructive Figures that Make Things Clearer.

What a Great Pennsylvania Man—Democrats Getting Ready to Nominate McKinley.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Mail and Express writes: "The most startling news of the week in Washington has been that in regard to Senator Quay's change of heart. It is not expected that every one will immediately believe the story which was first told in the Mail and Express as it was so startling. I expect and predict that there will be a denial of Mr. Quay's change of heart, and it may be days, if not weeks, before he takes the public into his confidence. But the intimations which have been given as to the outcome are sure to be verified before the 1st of next month. A few weeks before Maj. McKinley retired from the gubernatorial chair, and while on a campaigning trip, he made a short excursion into Pennsylvania, and there met Senator Quay. The two rode together in a Pullman car, and for two hours discussed the situation. The two Republican leaders came to a perfect understanding and parted with the best of feelings. They agreed to work together, but things were said the significance of which is now becoming apparent. Mr. Quay had made Mr. Platt certain promises of support, which he felt bound to keep, and it is these which are now being held against him. Senator Quay anxious to join the McKinley forces, for he knows that the Ohio man is to be the Republican nominee for the Presidency, and he also expressed the wish that the Republican party is still needed to carry on its work for the protection of the railroads. This was the same effect to give him a helping hand. There was no disposition on their part to suspect him of bad faith until there was proof irrefutable that he had made common cause with Mr. Platt.

Mr. Allison is in as good, and perhaps, in a better position than ever. Quay is to be defeated at St. Louis as were at Minneapolis four years ago. And we shall win at the polls next November, too."

May Make Terms.

(Chicago Times-Herald) Quay and Allison are in a position to make terms with the McKinley people. Neither of them has burned his bridges. Both are professed believers in the right.

Now, that is the way Quay started in this campaign with the declaration that he was for McKinley or Reed, and for a while he put McKinley's name first. In his great fight for the control of the party organization in Pennsylvania he appealed to McKinley, and he also expressed the wish that U. S. Grant, Jr., be nominated a delegate-at-large from this State. W. W. Borders as Congressman from this district.

Philip Morse, president of the Chamber of Commerce, made a graceful speech, in which he expressed the hope that at the proper time the news would be known that the McKinley nomination had been chosen. President, and thus shock the Democratic party to sleep for the next twenty years."

THE GREAT FEST COMING.

LA REINA DE LOS ANGELES DONNING HER ROBE OF STATE.

Ball in Honor of La Fiesta's Queen. Games at Athletic Park—Fireworks Friday Night—Arrangement of the Tribunes.

The city is donning its holiday attire, and the public streets, places of business and private residences are being extensively decorated. The carnival spirit and enthusiasm is making itself known by the display of the fiesta colors upon the coats of males and the hats and dresses of the ladies, while the rising generation is tooting the fiesta whistle to the utmost extent. Tourists are arriving with each incoming train, crowding the hotels and lodging-houses and adding by their presence to the general air of bustle and celebration.

Yesterday banners were strung along Main street and the thoroughfares leading to the railroad depots and tomorrow the large decorations on Spring street and Broadway will be placed in position, as well as the electric lights. Thousands of palm leaves have been attached to the electric poles and the effect of the decorations will be very pleasing.

The ball in honor of Her Majesty, the Queen on Friday evening, will be the great social function of the evening. The dresses of the Queen and the ladies who attend will be rich in material and magnificence in design, while the gentlemen will appear in full evening dress. The two young sons of Fred K. Rule, Roy and Gerald, will act as the Queen's pages on that occasion, and carry Her Majesty's long train. The young men will be elegantly attired in tail dress. The glittering uniforms of the officers of the U.S.S. Philadelphia, as well as the members of Gov. Budd's staff and officers of the National Guard, will add to the brilliancy of the occasion and give the event the greatest eclat. After the Queen has taken her seat, the band which will be especially decorated for this event, the ladies of her court will perform a graceful dance of honor to Her Majesty. Lowinski's orchestra, consisting of thirty instruments, will render the dance music, and the talented Rococó's American Concert Band will discourse operatic music. The floor will be canvassed, and the hall will be decorated in a most unique manner.

The games at Athletic Park on Thursday will undoubtedly attract an immense number of people, who will witness some keen and well-contested sport and exciting races, and also some very amusing features.

The 300 marines from the flagship Philadelphia, who have been permitted by Admiral Beardslee to give an exhibition of their sharp drill will be very interesting, as well as the active drill of the gallant soldiers of the Seventh Regiment of the N.G.C. who, under the eyes of the Queen, will march for laurels and fame.

The entries for the foot races and bicycle races are very numerous and the bicycle race, in particular, will cause shouts of laughter. The pigs have gone into training and will undoubtedly develop great speed.

Follows Bros. of the Camp Hotel at San Gabriel Cañon have entered five burros for the Rocky-Mountain burro race.

The fireworks on Friday evening will be brilliant and will furnish one of the greatest spectacular events of this character ever seen in Southern California. The two largest pieces are a portrait of the Queen and a mounted caballero, shown in fiesta colors. The Pain's Fireworks Company of New York who have furnished the set pieces as well as the other attractive fires for this affair, provided the fireworks at the World's Fair, and the grand display on Friday evening will surpass any shown on this Coast in the way of effect and mechanism. The fireworks will commence promptly at 8 o'clock at Athletic Park, and those who desire to attend the ball will have ample opportunity to witness the pyrotechnics.

The commercial travelers, who proved very enthusiastic supporters of the fiesta last year, will again show their public spirit in the coming celebration, and President Bush of the Travelers Men's Association has called a meeting of all the commercial travelers now in the city for this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Commercial Club in the Workman Block, where steps will be taken to have a representation of their number in several of the events and the program will take in Tuesday afternoon's events will be a credit to their liberal spirit.

Alfred Roncover, the leader and director of Rococo's American Concert Band, arrived from San Francisco yesterday to prepare for the intended concerts. His excellent band has been engaged to give a concert at Redondo Beach next Sunday.

Work has been received that fifty Indians have come to Los Angeles en route to Los Angeles, and they will arrive in the city tomorrow evening. Capt. Weaver, who is in command, will see to their comfort while here. They will give a representation of their old style of hunting and will be dressed in their native garbs with bows and arrows.

To form an idea of the crowds of the floral Parade, it is only necessary to state that already 132 entries have been recorded for the different classes.

As a result of the popularity of the fiesta it may be noted that the Executive Committee received yesterday a contribution of $112.50 voluntarily contributed by the employees of the Santa Fe at La Grande Station, in Superintendent Beamer's department.

ANNOUNCED AN OLD SOLDIER.

Tough Young Man Tore Up a Veteran's Papers.

J. A. Derringer is an old soldier, one who served in two different Pennsylvania regiments, fighting from end to end of the war. But now when he has begun to grow old, times are hard with him and he has become a member of the Soldiers' Home at Santa Monica.

As some of the old soldiers do once in a while, Derringer got drunk some weeks ago and was sent up to the County Jail on a term. While there he was caught in the act of reading a copy of a young thief, John Sullivan, who was serving out a sentence there. Sullivan called him foul names. Derringer declares that Sullivan one day took from him a bundle of papers and immediately destroyed them. In the package were two discharges, a pension card, a signed furlough from the Soldiers' Home and numerous other documents highly prized by the veteran.

Yesterday morning Derringer went into a Main-street saloon. While there he met his son, just recently released from jail. The old soldier went out and summoned a policeman—Officer Henderson—and had the man arrested for malicious mischief. Sullivan pleaded not guilty. He will be tried Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

New Police Blotter.

Yesterday morning the big book in which are written the names of all the offenders, great and small, who are arrested by the police, was laid aside for a new one. It was clear full, from cover to cover, with the names and offenses of a multitude of men, women and children. It took five and one-half months to fill it—from November 1, 1895, to April 18, 1896.

THE PNEUMACHEMIC APPARATUS.

The Greatest Discovery in the History of Medicine—Brought to the Coast at an enormous Expense by the Botanic Medical Institute.

This apparatus is designed for the treatment of diseases of the respiratory tract, catarrh, bronchitis and lung troubles, with our heating apparatus, by means of which the dry, comminuted medicine can be applied hot to the diseased surfaces with peculiar efficiency.

Test Treatment Free to All.

THE PNEUMACHEMIC APPARATUS—The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age. Test treatment free at the Botanic Medical Institute.

Did you ever stop to think of the wonderful advancement being made in medical science? The daily papers have lately informed us of the wonderful X rays that have done so much in the way of helping the physician to properly diagnose diseases. It is now said to kill the germ of consumption.

To Dr. John Robertson is given the credit of inventing an apparatus that will positively convey medicine direct to the lungs and destroy the germ of Tuberculosis in its early stages. For the cure of Catarrh and Bronchial troubles this treatment is without a doubt the most wonderful of modern times.

We believe that we have succeeded in producing the most efficient and convenient apparatus and process ever invented for the application of remedies directly to the respiratory tract, middle ear, etc. While we make no claims to results that border on the miraculous, we can positively assert that the treatment is efficient for the purposes for which it is recommended. The combination of remedies in the nebulous state, that are chemically incompatible in the liquid state (made possible only by the use of this apparatus invention) has brought to light advantages and possibilities even beyond what was in the mind of the inventor. The direct application of remedies to the respiratory tract and other passages and cavities of the body has long been of uncertain value on account of the inefficiency of the means employed. The Pneumachemic apparatus makes this theory of treatment practical and successful.

All sufferers from catarrh, bronchitis and lung troubles will be given a trial treatment free. Come and test this wonderful invention free of charge. Don't waste your time and money on worthless and dangerous cocaine spray treatments. Go to the Botanic Medical Institute for modern treatment.

The Public.

A special invitation is extended to the public to call at the parlors of the Botanic Medical Institute in the Gordon Block, 206½ S. Broadway and get a free test of the curative properties of this wonderful instrument. Dr. George C. Somers, the chief consulting physician will take pleasure in explaining its use and also administer trial treatment free. Last week over two hundred persons called and tested this new invention. One gentleman who has had a severe lung trouble for over two years, said: "I have gained more relief in three days by the use of the Pneumachemic apparatus than all other treatments in the past two years."

La Fiesta Visitors.

Patients living out of the city who will be in Los Angeles Fiesta week, we extend you an invitation to call and receive trial treatment free for your various complaints. If you need treatment or not you should not miss seeing the new Pneumachemic apparatus. It is the treatment and cure of catarrh, bronchitis and lung troubles. This is one of the latest inventions for the cure of disease. It is a great apparatus and is attracting the attention of all the physicians of Los Angeles. Last week almost two hundred citizens of the city called and tested its merits.

Not One Doctor.

But a competent staff of physicians who are specially educated in the larger cities and hospitals of America, men who do not have to resort to the use of cocaine sprays to get well. Neither do we have to pay patients the sum of money which they have never treated in order to get your patronage.

The physicians of the Botanic Medical Institute work upon their merit. They can prove their superior medical knowledge to any physician or specialists either in public or private. The Botanic Medical Institute have the largest apparatus for the cure of disease. They do not have five little bottles, and give every patient the same treatment. At the Botanic Medical Institute every patient is prescribed for his individual case.

Vegetable Remedies.

Blood Remedies you should beware of as they are not strong enough to give away. They contain gentian nux vomica and muricatic acid. The lining of the stomach is delicate and easily irritated by strong acids in it. At the Botanic Medical Institute you receive pure vegetable remedies.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

Preliminary Examination of Cook and Mings Brothers.

Testimony Reflecting Light Upon the Puente Murder.

Councilmen Surprised by a Communication from the Owner of the "Scott Electric Franchise."

At the City Hall yesterday a notice was filed with the City Clerk by a Pasadena capitalist of his purchase of the "Scott electric franchise," and his desire to light the City Hall, in compliance with the terms of the franchise. The Finance Committee of the Council passed on a number of petitions relating to financial matters.

At the Courthouse yesterday there was little going on except in Justice Young's court and Department One of the Superior Court. At the former the preliminary examination of D. F. Cook and the Mings brothers, for the murder of John Hayes of Puente, was in progress, and at the second the court was engaged in hearing evidence in the Nichols murder case. Both these hearings will be resumed tomorrow.

AT THE CITY HALL.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

Preparations Being Made to Light the City Hall.

Yesterday the Councilmen who are amazed to learn that preparations are under way to begin the lighting of the City Hall with independent lights, by a corporation, in accordance with the terms of a franchise granted nine months ago to L. F. Scott. This franchise will be forfeited if by the 26th of the present month the City Hall is not provided with lighting facilities. The belief had become general that the owners of the franchise, for different reasons, had given up hope of carrying out its provisions. Hence the surprise occasioned by the following communication to the Council, filed yesterday with the City Clerk:

"To the Mayor and Council of the city of Los Angeles: I have the honor to report that I have acquired and now own the franchise for electric lighting, etc., which you granted to L. F. Scott, and his heirs, and that I shall be ready to furnish light in the City Hall as required in that franchise."

"W. S. WRIGHT,
San Gabriel Valley Bank, Pasadena." The City Hall is supplied with wires by which connection can be made, but what is puzzling the Councilmen is where the power to furnish the light will come from. With only six days to accomplish it, Mr. Wright assures the Councilmen that by the 26th of this month he will be able to furnish all the light needed in the City Hall, which is sufficient to keep the franchises in the hands of Mr. Wright, who now claims to own it, and the Councilmen will not be apt to complain if nothing more than this is done for several months or even longer.

It costs the city at the present time about $300 a month to light the City Hall, and to save this sum of money would go far toward resuscitating the dilapidated cash fund, which more than anything else is now worrying the Council.

The communication from Mr. Wright printed in a foregoing paragraph, will be received by the Council tomorrow, and referred to the Gas and Light Committee.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Proposition Made to Translate the Old Spanish Records.

The proposition made by T. Masac to the Council, offering to translate the old Spanish records of the city into English, was considered by the Finance Committee yesterday. These records will no doubt be of immense value to the city in future years, and particularly in the litigation that will sooner or later take place between the city and the water company. That the water company appreciates their value is shown by the fact that this corporation has a committee to translate these records and at the same time a practical monopoly of their construction. Masac offers to do this work for about $100. No report was made by the committee regarding his proposition, action in that regard being deferred for one week. The following recommendation, in relation to the action of the Auditor in transferring money from one fund to another, without permission from the Council so to do, was presented:

"Recommend that the Auditor be instructed to transfer back to the interest sewer fund the sum of $7500, recently transferred to the Central Police station improvement fund, and that thereafter transfer to the cash fund, which is the general fund of the municipality, from the interest sewer fund, the sum of $7500, as is provided for by law."

In accordance with the City Attorney's report on the demands made by various persons for return of double sewer assessment paid by them, the committee yesterday recommended that $31 worth of these demands be denied.

The reports of the commissioners on the extension of Vignes street was received and filed, as was also the petition of the Associated Charities for a donation of $500.

Building Permits.

Permits for building purposes were issued yesterday as follows:

C. Thomas, four dwellings on Kohler street between Seventh and Eighth streets, to cost $1000 each.

After a Rival.

W. B. Cline, president of the Los Angeles Lighting Company, with T. E. Gibbon, attorney, interviewed the City Clerk yesterday morning, to complain of M. E. Peck, who is conducting a lighting business in the southern part of the city. Mr. Peck's operations have been confined recently to the territory outside of the city, but by the recent annexation election, his system is brought under municipal control and taxation.

Mr. Cline's complaint to the City Clerk was to the effect that his competitor, Mr. Peck, should be forced to comply with the ordinance, relating to electrical concessions, at present. Mr. Peck is not paying any tax to the city, nor does his system correspond to the requirements of the ordinance. The City Clerk will probably ask instructions from the Council in relation to the matter and then act accordingly.

FILLE DU REGIMENT.*THE GALLANT SEVENTH ADOPTS A PRETTY MASCOT.

Miss Eileen Sanborn will march in the Fiesta Parade with Her Soldiers—The Only Daughter of a Veteran.

The Seventh Regiment, N.G.C., has a pretty surprise in store for Los Angeles, which will be sprung when the gallant boys in blue turn out in their new uniforms.

Directly behind Col. Berry and his staff will be seen a pretty white pony, bearing the new daughter of the regiment, Miss Eileen A. Sanborn, who will then make her first appearance in public in the character of the mascot of the Seventh, to which position she was elected some weeks ago. Miss Sanborn will be dressed in the full-dress uniform of the regiment, which has been cleverly adapted to suit her, and which makes a most becoming costume. The helmet is white with a white plume, and gold embroidery bearing the arms of the United States, in gold upon the front. For fatigue there is a jaunty scarlet fes, embroidered in gold with the insignia of an infantry officer. The little blue jacket is elaborately embroidered in white and gold, and the buttons, which have already taken place, and the Los Angeles County Committee has fallen into line.

The older and more experienced workers were strongly in favor of a "still hunt"; no conventions, no unnecessary talking, but quiet work put where it would do the most good. This method of conducting the campaign was advocated by the conservative element to be not only the most sensible under the circumstances, but the most effective. It has, however, been rendered impossible by the fact that the men, who have already taken place, and the Los Angeles County Committee has fallen into line.

The meeting yesterday was for the election of officers, and all important questions were settled by the committee. A subscription was started to raise funds for the campaign, and many of the women present pledged themselves to pay each a stated sum every month from May to October for the furtherance of the campaign.

Putting speakers into the field. These will be most carefully selected, as the day for ranting denunciations of tyrant man, and wails over the wrongs of suffering man, is past.

It was decided to form a committee to interview the leaders of the city, the object being to induce them to speak from the pulpit in favor of the eleventh amendment to the Constitution, which gives women the franchise by eliminating the word "male" from every person, and substituting "or she" for "he" wherever the pronoun is used.

Petitions for the support of this amendment are also to be circulated among the voters of the county.

It was decided to establish headquarters for the committee in some central part of the city. Mrs. Alice Ludlum pledged herself to pay the first month's rent. The meeting then adjourned until April 28, when it will convene at the Temperance Temple.

BUNCO-MENS' WILES.

A Swindler Well Known Here Arrested in Milwaukee.

Frank E. Rose, a bunco man and confidence operator, who lived in Los Angeles for some time, nearly seven years ago, has come to grief in Milwaukee. The fellow flourished here in company with two other men, James Hood and James White. The men were clever swindlers. They took advantage of the unwary in every possible way, with a fertility of dishonest resources that was appalling. The men were arrested and the cases against them were fought bitterly, on technicalities.

The case against them here was swindling Hon. John B. Haskins, a prominent New York politician.

Rose had a national reputation as a swindler. On April Fool's day three weeks ago, Rose appeared in a pawnshop in Milwaukee and offered to pawn a handsome gold watch. The pawnbroker examined the timepiece and saw that it was a real gold watch, probably worth $15. It is customary for pawnbrokers to give about one-third the value of property, when it is pledged.

Rose declared the watch was worth $90, and tried to get $30 on it. The pawnbroker refused to give him $25. But when Rose handed over the watch, the skilled eye of the pawnbroker saw that it was not the watch he had examined. He refused to give compensation at all on it, and Rose departed.

The police were notified, Rose was arrested, and on being searched, the detective found upon him a genuine gold watch worth $75, and an imitation one, of exactly the same size, shape, color and general appearance, but worth not more than $15. It was afterward found that he had worked the same game of exchanging watches in Racine, Wis.

Chief Glass says the town is full of swindlers and confidence men of every kind, attracted hither by the fame of La Fiesta. It has been reported to the police that this same game is being attempted here. On the days of the festival, when the crowds are gathered everywhere, the swindlers will try to keep open guard of his pockets and to wear no expensive jewelry on the street. The danger of much swindling being done will be greatly lessened if everyone will lock up his belongings and his house tightly when he goes down town, and if ever he will go around the city, it is folly to buy jewelry, greenbacks, gold bricks, "lost" spectacles, watches, etc., from unknown persons.

ABBOTT AND LEON HELD.

Damaging Evidence Against the Alleged Robbers.

George Abbott, the hardened Mexican convict, and Rudolph Leon, the boy who has got into trouble by affecting bad company, must stand their trial for robbery, in the Superior Court. Their examination before Justice Owens yesterday resulted in their being held to answer in the sum of $1000 each.

The courtroom was even more crowded than usual, with a large admixture of swarthy-skinned spectators.

Abbott's mother was the one woman in the courtroom, a fat, wrinkled Mexican woman, who looked continually at the son whose evil ways had brought him into such wretched plight. Leon, the boy, who was tall, looked thoroughly depressed and miserable.

Messrs. Fitzgerald and Appel defended the prisoners, and Deputy District Attorney James conducted the prosecution. The first witness put on the stand by the defense was Anton Abbott, of Germantown, a man whose son and son Leon are accused of robbing. He told the story of the occurrence. W. A. Sloan, a grocer, who had given $100 to the swindlers, corroborated his story.

The testimony of the two witnesses occupied the greater part of the morning.

In the afternoon the defendants were brought from the jail to stand trial. Thomas, and then put Francisco Rodriguez upon the stand. There was a decided sensation when Rodriguez, after faltering and hesitating over the first question, said bluntly, "I don't know what he would do for me." Abbott and Leon had driven Thomas from his saloon merely for a joke, while Abbott was drunk.

The evidence seemed to Justice Owens sufficiently strong to warrant the holding of the defendants in $1000 bonds each, so off they went to the County Jail.

HUNTINGTON'S OTHER JOB.

The Los Angeles harbor matter is not the only subject that is engaging the attention of Mr. Huntington at Washington just now. That indefatigable schemer against the rights and interest of the people has two other undertakings which he is working with the quiet persistence of a mole burrowing in the ground. One of these is the scheme to grab a vast area of valuable mineral land in the northern part of the State. In this he appears to have succeeded, owing to the complicity of Secretary Hovey Smith.

The other is the Funding Bill, by means of which Mr. Huntington expects to postpone the payment of a just debt which he owes to a generous government for a quarter of a century. To us on the Pacific Coast, who read the papers, it appears as if the facts in regard to this outrageous proposition have been so widely published that no intelligent person could be ignorant of them unless wilfully so. According to a letter from the Washington correspondent of The Times, published a few days ago, this is not so, as far as our lawmakers at the national Capitol are concerned. Our correspondent shows that Congressmen have been deluged with letters from their constituents begging them to help Mr. Huntington in putting through his little bill, while very few have written to advocate the other side of the question. It is easy for us in California to understand what power behind the throne has secured the writing of such letters as these, which do not represent the sentiment of 1 per cent. of the people of this State. It is another proof of the tireless work that is done by this corporation, which spends millions of dollars for the purpose, that have been exacted in the shape of high freight rates from the people whom it is now attempting to defraud.

Our correspondent stated that Bowers and Maguire are the only California Congressmen who have come out squarely in public against the Funding Bill. All that need be said on this subject is that those California Congressmen who vote in favor of Mr. Huntington's bill need not try to plead the "holy act" and say that they could not help it—they were confused at the character of the advice sent them from California by their correspondents. These men know very well the prevailing sentiment in the State regarding Huntington's bill. If they do not, they are unfit to represent us in Washington. If, knowing it, they should, for reasons best known to themselves—reasons which their constituents will fairly well understand—vote for Mr. Huntington against the people, it can only be that they do so having made up their minds never again to ask the voters of California for any position of trust.

An instance of the manner in which Huntington is misleading public opinion throughout the East is furnished in a copy of the Financial Record, a New York paper, of April 1. In this issue there is an article on the Central Pacific debt, giving the opinions of a certain "Mr. Pondir" upon Mr. Huntington's plan for paying the government debt. These ponderous opinions are furthermore represented to be the opinion of a vast majority of the people in California. There is no doubt that the article is paid for by Huntington at so much per line, but many people in the East are not aware of this fact, and will doubtless take the statements therein set down for gospel. In reply to an inquiry of the reporter Mr. Pondir says:

"I think that Mr. Huntington's proposition is one of the most liberal that has been made, and shows the greatness and frankness of the man in this transaction with the Government."

He then goes on to state that any other plan would, in his opinion, result in an outrage upon the taxpayers. Mr. Pondir continues:

"Mr. Huntington's plan would relieve the government and the taxpayers of all trouble and expense by paying the debt out of the earnings of the property itself, and as a guarantee for the faithful performance of this undertaking Mr. Huntington cheerfully offers almost all he possesses. He is willing to pledge the credit of the Southern Pacific as a guarantee for the sincerity of his intentions, and the straightforward honesty and manliness of his purposes."

"As Mr. Huntington himself states

A BAD CASE OF FILES.

The Southern Pacific Company has for several years been making a determined effort to convince Congress that Santa Monica is a better site for a deep-water harbor than San Pedro, in spite of the fact that the United States engineers have thrice reported to the contrary, their views being shared by a great majority of mariners who have had experience at both places.

As is known to most of our readers, the Southern Pacific Company formerly had a wharf at Santa Monica, and a large proportion of the freight coming to Los Angeles from the North was shipped by that route. About twenty years ago the company tore down the wharf at Santa Monica and moved to San Pedro, which it then considered a better site. The company was active in endeavoring to obtain an appropriation to San Pedro until competition loomed up in the shape of the Santa Fe at Redondo and the Terminal at San Pedro, when it suddenly discovered that San Pedro was "no good."

One of the reasons which induced the Southern Pacific Company to remove from Santa Monica to San Pedro has not been referred to during the present controversy, but it is of much interest as showing the weakness of the Southern Pacific case. That reason is disclosed in the following report, made to Charles Crocker, then president of the Southern Pacific Company, by Arthur Brown, superintendent of bridge construction, in August, 1878:

SUP'T OF BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION,
WEST OAKLAND, AUG. 22, 1878.

Charles Crocker, Esq., President Southern Pacific Railroad—Dear Sir: I enclose with the instructions contained in your letter of Aug. 14, I have made a thorough examination of the wharf at Santa Monica. I herewith submit the following report of its stability, together with a general description, probable first cost and estimated cost of present necessary repairs, etc., as follows:

General description—This wharf was finished July, 1875, consequently it is now about three years. It consists of a roadway and railroad track, twenty-six feet wide, extending out into the water 634 feet from the pier for a distance of 240 feet. It increases in width to eighty feet, and contains the same width for an additional distance of 168 feet, see diagram, making a total length of 1740 feet; along the last 166 feet there is a depth of 24 feet of water at low tide. At this point the steamer and large vessels enter. There are no indications that sand has filled in any around the wharf. The piles are driven about eight feet apart on a line at right angles to the wharf, and fifteen feet apart longitudinally. The wharf is built in the ordinary manner; originally the timbers were 10x12 inches in diameter and size; probably first cost $25,000.

Condition—Our examination has developed an alarming condition of the piles caused by the ravages of the teredo. This can readily be understood from the fact that over three-fourths of the piles are now rotten, infested with these terrible destructive worms, besides thirty piles replaced, and as many more hanging loose. Our examination could only be carried on between high and low tide, so there is still a good deal of uncertainty as to what is going on below low tide, where the work is usually most destructive. As an example of their work, we placed some fender piles last fall, and in less than seven months some of them were entirely eaten off (a specimen of which I send you.) We find from experience in the Pacific that the teredo, when once it gets into a pile, will eat away at it until it is entirely gone, and then it will spread to other piles, and finally to the whole wharf. The piles are driven about eight feet apart on a line at right angles to the wharf, and fifteen feet apart longitudinally. The wharf is built in the ordinary manner; originally the timbers were 10x12 inches in diameter and size; probably first cost $25,000.

The Financial Record must have received a pretty good sum of Mr. Huntington's money, or else its editorial columns are cheap, as it has another article in the same issue on the subject, in which, after enlarging upon the immense benefits that the people of the country had derived from the building of the Pacific roads, Mr. Pondir is allowed to break out into enthusiastic praise of his friend—and presumably his employer—as follows:

"What a debt both in gratitude and in hard cash the people and the government owe to Mr. Huntington! It will never be paid, and yet people talk about Mr. Huntington being in the government debt, etc., on material calculation alone. It is admitted by the most expert railroad auditors, that the government has been paid more than the $60,000,000 now claimed in actual, ordinary services by these roads for which the management has charged nothing. And still Mr. Huntington offers to mortgage nearly all he possesses as security for the alleged debt. If there can be anything more magnanimous than this, I don't know where there is an example of it can be found."

One good result of the present fight over the Funding Bill is that the people, not only of California but of the East, are becoming informed as to Mr. Huntington's methods. Within a year we may hope that the American people will be able to lift this old man of the sea from their shoulders—unless Providence should remove him in the mean time.

HOPE FOR THE FREE HARBOR.

The hearing in the harbor case was completed yesterday. As will be noted by this morning's dispatches to The Times, the results thus far are highly encouraging to the friends of the San Pedro free harbor. They are said to have had positive assurances that the appropriation of $392,000 for the inner harbor will be restored to the bill, and that the price of the restoration will not be $3,000,000, nor any other sum, for Huntington's private harbor.

There will probably be no appropriation for an outer harbor at this session, though the hope is not abandoned that some amendment or other form of legislative action, recognizing San Pedro as the chosen site for an outer harbor, will be incorporated in the bill. If this can be accomplished, the friends of San Pedro will be satisfied. It will be a magnificent victory for the people, nobly achieved in the face of a most determined, venomous, and unscrupulous opposition.

Senator White has won the sincere thanks and congratulations of Southern California for the brilliant manner in which he has conducted the case for the people as against the Huntington monopoly and its henchmen. If victory has been won, as now appears, it is due in no small degree to his able and indefatigable efforts, reinforced by the able and fearless free-harbor delegation now in Washington, composed of Messrs. W. C. Patterson, A. M. Stephens, Henry T. Hazard and H. H. Greenwood, the engineer; and also by Representative McLachlan on the last round.

Huntington is reported to be angry—which indicates that he regards defeat for his cause as practically assured. Corporate Collis does not often get angry on slight provocation.

(In Florida) Mr. Platt to Mr. Quay: "How do you stack up today?" "Feeble, very feeble," replied the Senator from the Keystone State. "I don't believe I ever will get strong until I take some of that d—d protection tonic that everyone is talking about."

The countersign at the White House just now is not yum-yum, but mun-

THE EVENING LIAR.

The Evening Express is not content with printing absurd and misleading opinions in regard to the harbor question. It does not hesitate to deliberately distort the facts in the case. In its issue of Friday it published an asserted special dispatch from Washington, which was evidently "edited" in the Express office, if not entirely written there. In this so-called special dispatch it has the following in regard to the testimony given before the Senate committee by the United States engineers:

"The engineers followed the San Pedro Committee. Col. Hayes stated that a breakwater was feasible and beneficial at either location, the cost being about the same. The wharves at Santa Monica now indicate a good harbor. The engineers considered the military aspect in reporting."

Immediately following this cooked-up dispatch in the Express was a regular Associated Press dispatch, in which the statements of the engineers are given as follows:

"Gen. Craighill stated he had made an inspection of the two places in 1894, in connection with the government commission and then concluded that he was still of the opinion that San Pedro was the preferable place for a deep-water harbor."

"Major Raymond and Hayes, government engineers and members of the board which investigated the respective advantages of the two harbors, also spoke in favor of San Pedro Harbor.

"They said San Pedro had a natural inner harbor at San Pedro, the lagoon, from San Pedro to Wilmington, the harbor being in fine basin with good wharfs built there."

Witness Berkenhead, opposite Liverpool, Eng., and Hartlepool, Eng.; both these places are very similar to San Pedro, the British government built them in both places, at the cost

I think of $3,000,000. San Monica is no place for a harbor. I think it would be wasting the public money in trying to build a harbor there; any honest engineer will acknowledge this fact.

Many civil engineers don't know all concerning harbors, and some local editors know as much about harbors as a

Pawnee Indian knows about logarithms.

The anchorage at Santa Monica is not safe for vessels, while the anchorage at San Pedro is good anchoring ground, and calm to anchor in.

When the late Admiral A. Ludlow

Case, U.S.N., was here in the year

1885, I accompanied him on tour along the coast. He said that next to San Diego, the San Pedro site was the only place in Southern California fit for a harbor. Admiral Case was a naval officer and a good civil engineer, a sailor, a navigator and a good citizen. I think of my life on the ocean, and I have been in most of the great harbors of the world, and many of the smaller ones, and I truthfully state that San

Pedro far excels Santa Monica for a harbor site. Very truly

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Southern California is getting ample railway facilities for local traffic. All that seems to be lacking is the Salt Lake road and the completion of the Surf Line to San Francisco. Speed the day when both will be built!

Nevada has turned out tons of silver and lots of gold, but the newspapermen just now here from the Sagebrush State, are beyond question better than silver or gold. Their earnest efforts in behalf of their loved hills and mesas have been appreciated west of the Sierras, and it is a pleasure to shake hands without reaching over the mountains.

La Fille du Regiment will be a valued recruit for the gallant Seventh. Her first appearance at La Fiesta will add much to the interest with which the military part of the parade will be regarded. The National Guards will doubtless march more proudly with the pony and his fair rider at the head of the column with the colonel and his staff officers. Here's to the health of the new recruit!

Persistent efforts are being made, contrary to all reason, to "bear" the oil market. Every one acquainted with the diminished production of the local field and the comparatively light yield, even of new wells, knows that a drop in the market could be produced only by unfair means. The efforts of speculators who think they can profit more from the misfortunes of others than by enterprise of their own deserve to fail, and will fall ignominiously.

Judge George Puterbaugh of the Superior Court of San Diego county remarked at a McKinley meeting on Friday that he had not indulged in campaign speaking for about twelve years adding: "The last time I participated in a campaign was in Illinois, and I hollered myself hoarse all through my district trying to apologize for the over-loaded condition of the United States treasury." Now, I don't think that one of the arguments I used then would be in good taste at this time. The Judge is right. The people yearn for a taste of sufficient revenue for the every-day expenses of this government. The humor of Judge Puterbaugh's remark has its grim side. The truth of it is demonstrated by the repeated issues of bonds.

Arizona people can swallow a good many things, but the Phoenix man who was choked to death recently while trying to swallow an orange has himself to blame for not chewing the fruit before trying to get in his stomach. Chicken bones, corals and toothpicks are prolific causes for choking people, but no true friend of the orange can read calmly the account of the Arizona tragedy without saying a word in defense of the orange. With a view to preventing appendicitis the orange-growers of Southern California offer the world seedless oranges in the form of navel, etc. No doubt this has been the means of saving lives. But if the human family insists upon trying to swallow oranges without chewing it must take the consequences and not blame the fruit.

It is, after all, the results that tell the story in everything connected with human endeavor. "Nothing succeeds like success." And the result of California's fruit output during 1895, is something for the State, both north and south, to be proud of, and to herald to the world repeatedly. The shipments of green and dried fruit for that year amounted to 360,490 tons, of which 155,365 tons were shipped by Southern California. Therefore Southern California, with but 25 per cent. of the population of this commonwealth, shipped 40 per cent. of the fruit raised throughout this great State. With the wine, brandy and vegetables, the year's shipments amounted to 48,871 carloads, or an increase of 5346 carloads over the shipments of 1894. Southern California's showing in the actual accomplishments of this State is something which gives every true son of this sunny southland increased enthusiasm in the upbuilding of the rich section in which he lives.

BEST LAW-MOWER.

W. A. Shepard went walking along Los Angeles street last evening, with a new lawn-mower under his arm. Officer Stevenson arrested him, and J. O. on being taken to the Police Station, the prisoner acknowledged that he had stolen the machine, as well as one other, which he had already sold. Shepard was but recently released from jail, where he served a term for petty larceny. He declares he will always rather steal than beg.

A LIVE INVESTMENT.

Owing to the large and growing business in the various departments of the Mt. Lowe Railway, and the necessity of dividing the duties among more parties directly interested, a bond and stock interest to the extent of $20,000 will be sold to one or two parties, preferably those who could give one or more of the departments personal attention. For a statement and interview, call or address T. S. C. Lowe, president, Openhouse Block, Pasadena.

TO CHICAGO IN THREE NIGHTS.

It takes only three nights in a sleeping-car from Los Angeles to Chicago on the Santa Fe route. This for both first and second-class tickets on the Overland Express. The best time on any competing line takes five nights, and some of them longer. Don't waste your time.

Masks for Fiesta.

NEVADA NEWSPAPERMAN.

Press Association Makes the Grand Tour of California.

A considerable delegation of newspaper men belonging to the Nevada Press Association, arrived in Southern California Friday afternoon in the private car, Tangier. Yesterday they enjoyed a trip around the Kite-shaped track with tally-ho drives at Redlands and Riverside. Retired to the city last night they were the recipients of special attentions from Fred Cooper, manager of the Burbank Theater, and W. T. Carleton and company, occupying seats at the theater during the presentation of the opera "Fra Diavolo," as the distinguished guest of the man of the hour. A vote of thanks was adopted by the association to Cooper.

The following comprise the party: Sam Davis and wife, Carson Appeal C. C. Bragg, Reno Gazette; N. A. Hume, Wadsworth Dispatch; Mrs. H. E. Hogan, Reno Plaindealer; C. H. Sprule and wife, Elko Free Press; W. W. Book and nephew, Mineral Independent; M. S. Riddell and wife, and G. R. Vandy, Dirich Tidings; E. J. McKinney and wife, Territorial Enterprise; J. E. Parkinson, Nevada Tribune; J. O. Covich, Carson Weekly; C. W. Patterson, Ferndale Rustler; G. M. Smith, Marysville Journal; L. B. Burns, Sonoma Courier; R. C. Blossom and sister, Central Nevadan; E. D. Kelly, wife and daughter, and Miss Webster, Mr. Kelly's president of the association, and Mr. Bragg secretary.

A pleasing itinerary has been arranged for the "Grand Tour." State journalists tomorrow they are going to Santa Monica; Wednesday they will visit Pasadena and Mt. Lowe, and Tuesday and Wednesday they will be in Los Angeles. Wednesday night they will leave for the north, if the efforts of their numerous friends and acquaintances to induce them to tarry through La Fiesta are unsuccessful.

A NEW STOCK BOARD.

Mining and Stock Exchange Now Fully Organized.

The directors of the Los Angeles Mining and Stock Exchange held a meeting yesterday afternoon and elected the following officers for the first year: A. H. Judson, president; J. A. Fairchild, vice-president; H. M. Russell, treasurer; Los Angeles National Bank, depositary; F. J. Cooper, secretary.

The exchange starts out with a membership of 100, and the main purpose of the organization is to advance the legitimate mining interests of the Southwest, maintaining also a stock board for the calling and listing of all stocks and bonds due to appear by Listing Committee and a bureau of mining information where all mining news will be kept on file as also the daily quotations of mining and other stocks from all parts of the country, and to have in its rooms a fine exhibit of minerals from this portion of the country.

The storeroom in the Seymour building at No. 215 West Second street, has been secured and it is expected to have an opening of the exchange by May 1. Monday evening, April 27, a meeting of the members of the exchange will be held, when all arrangements for a formal opening will be completed. The board of directors will use every effort to further only legitimate properties and in carrying out this intention it is hoped to make the exchange an institution advancing greatly in furthering the fame of Los Angeles.

FIRE IN A BIG BLOCK.

Porter's Room in the Stowell Block Burnt Out.

There was a fire in the Stowell block at No. 220 South Spring street, at 6:20 o'clock last evening, which caused much excitement for a little while.

J. J. Bassett and Dr. Watrous have room together in room 26 on the third floor of the Stowell Block. At 5:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Bassett was反映 to tell when there was an alarm. He reflected to tell when there was an alarm. The engine went first to the corner of Second and Spring streets and the firemen were forced to waste precious time asking where the fire was.

A chemical engine extinguished the fire when not more than $100 damage had been done. The floor was burned through, the doors were charred and the plaster broken off the walls. A five-gallon can of gasoline had been standing in the room, but some one with lots of presence of mind carried it out before the blaze had gained much headway.

GETTING READY FOR BUSINESS.

A Meeting of Sixth Ward Republicans Last Evening.

The Sixth Ward Republicans Club met last evening in Forester's Hall, on the corner of Main and Fifteenth streets.

C. L. Strange occupied the chair; F. W. Stein was the secretary of the meeting and many of the prominent Republicans of the Sixth Ward were present.

It was decided after some discussion to hold the caucus one week from Monday next. Discussion as to the precise date followed, and the voting of the members decided the question. Two hundred names were added to the roll of the club, making 130 members altogether. Various matters of routine business were attended to, and several speakers addressed the gathering.

Judge Lucien Shaw of the Superior Court presided over the meeting, followed by Col. Gibson, Dr. Cutler and C. G. Register of the Fourth Ward.

Mr. Van Norman described life in the Southern States, making his remarks applicable to the present issues, and M. A. Dickman spoke on the subjects of the day in a pleasant, chatty manner.

A Study in Blacks.

THE STORY is told of a certain famous musician, a violin wizard of almost a hundred years ago, while playing one day before the Queen and her court, purposely broke all the strings but one of his magic fiddle. THEN out from that solitary string he drew such marvelous melody that ROYALTY was fairly entranced. THAT FIDDLE is synonymous with the different departments of our house. BREAK any ELEVEN of the twelve departments of this store, carry them away, banish, sink, forget all but the one solitary section, and more merchandising, much more "Price Melody" will come out of that one than many pretentious merchants get out of the entire double octaves of their stocks. Piling up great advertising superlatives about this matchless stock would be an insult to your intelligence. We Tell You Here the simple story of a few of the items in the plainest language at our command.

LOST AND FOUND.

CRAIGIE GORDON'S BRILLIANT SCHEME TO BENEFIT MANKIND.

Self-appointed Waitmaster-General, He Proposes to Establish a System by Which All Things Lost May Be Discovered.

The days of magic are past, and necromancy is no more, but now, and again a brilliant idea shines through the darkness, enlightening a fog, and mankind, astounded by the classic simplicity of some great invention, scrubs up its lethargic wits and mutters, "Why didn't I think of that before?"

Such an idea is that which found lodgment in the brain-span of Craigie Gordon, some twenty-five years ago, and he is still struggling to impress its feasibility upon society at large, and to procure its adoption and nurture by the powers and principalities which rule the nation in this year of grace, 1880.

Mr. Gordon's idea is certainly extensive enough to feel cramped in any ordinary cranium, for it aims at nothing less than the finding of everything in the world that is lost. To effect this end, Mr. Gordon has officially appointed himself Waitmaster-General of the United States, with the privilege of naming his own subordinates and paying his own salary. When he gets his system adopted by the United States government, Mr. Gordon has decided to take the initial steps himself. He feels sure that the invention will be taken up by his hands as soon as it is in running order, but experience has taught him not to put his trust in men, and he has been compelled to demonstrate the success of his project. When he first conceived the idea, twenty-six years ago, he approached General Macmillan, Eng. He at once communicated the plan to John Bull, who was told that he would take at least twenty years to get a new idea drilled through the skull of the Englishman, and that the great and glorious Anglo-Saxon race, caught him at this time, was an incontrovertible fact. Mr. Gordon then took his plan to General William Lloyd Garrison, Horace Greeley and several other noted men, but for some inexplicable reason, they all turned him down. He gave up the idea until lately, when it found its way to the world until lately, when it found its way to the world until lately, when it found its way to the application of its own infallible method.

Mr. Gordon is going to canvass the State thoroughly and establish a general waitery in San Francisco, and in every American city and town in every small town. If the people fail to take it up, he will abandon the hope he has cherished of making America the center of the world, and will turn his back to the world-wide, and take his discovery over to France, where he is quite sure of finding an infallible method.

Mrs. BOOTH-TUCKER.

The New Leader Welcomed by Salvation Army Soldiers.

Commissioner Mrs. Booth-Tucker, the new leader of the Salvation Army in the United States, was given a reception by the local army corps. Music was provided by Mrs. Booth, and with her husband was appointed to succeed the rebellious Buntington, her brother, commanding the army forces in America. She is accompanied on her tour of the country by Maj. Alice Lewis and Maj. W. H. Jones, who assisted her last evening in responding to the various associations she has made.

The audience, which was a trifling sum to those made up by enthusiasm what it lacked in money, was highly称赞ed and "amen" were thrice in volume as the visitors addressed the soldiers, appealing to every possible motive that might be its operation.

She has been a member of the American army corps since its formation, and has been a member of the British army corps since its formation. She has been a member of the British army corps since its formation.

She eulogized the "general," her father, a man whose heart is in the hollow of God's hand, and who always carries his plow to the plowing field, and who is always ready to produce the best results for God and man.

The same happy result ensues if a description has been sent to the army corps in which the animal in which matched the dog, for this serves to bring him home, addressed to the post office to his recovery as surely as those who were actually turned over to the wolfmaster.

If another dog has disappeared, he be found. The lost wolfmaster takes another 20-cent stamp to the description, and Mr. Jones' expense, and mails it to one of the state offices, who then sends it to the army corps, and the army corps, which is instituted, all the descriptions of canine wanderers found in general circulation being compared, and the dog is recovered.

In case his wanderings have been more extensive than the U.S.A., he sends another 20-cent stamp to the description, and Mr. Jones' expense, and mails it to one of the state offices, who then sends it to the army corps, which is instituted, all the descriptions of canine wanderers found in general circulation being compared, and the dog is recovered.

Oratorical CONTEST.

Members of the High School League Struggle for Honors.

A spirited contest for oratorical honors took place at the N.C.A. auditorium, last night, before a very large audience, between four members of the Los Angeles High School League, the largest league in the United States. The orators of the occasion were Lamar Harris, Charles Seyler, Jr., E. Childs Baxter and Paul C. Johnson. A special oratorical address was made by Gen. A. Campbell.

Charles Seyler spoke on "International Arbitration." Miss Addie Meek contrived a comedy solo, and Lamar Harris collected an oration having for its subject "Our Nation."

In discussion of the nation's life, the monopole manifested in the aggregate of the wealth of the nation, and the influence of certain political, which was seeking to divert a Congressional appropriation for a harbor at a place apart from the sea port, and the influence of the people. The audience was received with tumultuous applause by the audience.

Childs Baxter discussed in an able oratorical effort the "Liberty of the Press." The oration of orations was rounded out by that of Paul G. Clark, who spoke of "The American People." The speakers were well received, and the audience responded with a shower of description-cards issued to all the local wolfmasters. The restoration of a regulation 20-cent stamp is afforded to the person who only cuts a few wavy stamps, and the postage will be beseiged by inventors and newspapermen searching for ideas which have apparently been overlooked. The hub of notings from whence they came.

Altogether, the brain reels at the stupendous possibilities of Mr. Gordon's scheme, and of course could only be broached in a clear view of what it was missing, the solution would be established at once.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.

A PECULIAR VERDICT IN A LIQUOR TRIAL.

Republican Primaries Held Throughout the County—No Contest Outside of Redlands and Colton. Physicians to Testify in the Huse Case.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 18.—Regular Correspondence. The difficulty of getting convictions in liquor cases has often been noted, but this city has just given an illustration of more than ordinary interest. John Tomich was arrested for selling liquor without a license. He runs a restaurant, and the saloons are trying to suppress illegal selling of liquor in defense of themselves. A detective testified that he had bought drinks a number of times in the place. When put upon the stand a waiter, a nephew of Tomich, admitted serving the liquor. Tomich testified that he had ordered his waiter to serve no liquor to any one. The jury was in for two hours before acquitting. When Recorder Halle asked the jurymen if that was their verdict, J. L. Baxter said it was not his. It was then developed that during all the ballots in the jury room there had been a division, the majority being for acquittal. George G. Mulligan, who had sat down until but one ballot was cast for conviction, and none of the others could find out who cast that ballot. It was then voted to let the majority rule, but Mr. Baxter did not withdraw his ballot, and it was not until he repudiated the verdict in open court that the other jurors gave in. The jury was then sent alone. The jury was sent out again and failed to agree. The testimony was so direct against Tomich that the failure to convict was a complete surprise.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.

Primaries are being held in all the precincts of the county today by the Republicans, and nothing is known here of any contest in any of the precincts, unless it be in Redlands and Colton, where the A.P.A. seem to have control. In this case, everything is quiet, and it is not known that there is more than one ticket in each precinct. It is thought that throughout the county the vote will be favorable to H. H. Sinclair as delegate to the national convention. All contests outside have already withdrawn from the contest. The position taken by Mr. Sinclair is willingness to carry out any instructions he may receive, being non-committed as to his personal preferences.

SAN BERNARDINO BREVITIES.

Albert Keithly and Miss Susan Chute will be married Sunday at the residence of Austin Chute in this city.

The Times-Index's Political poll stands as follows: First choice—McKinley, 75; Reed, 23; Allison, 8; Custom, 2; Morton, 1; Linton, 2; Second choice—McKinley, 75; Reed, 7; Allison, 1; Custom, 5; Morton, 1; Quay, 2; Lincoln, 3; Linton, 1.

Dr. W. W. Hitchcock, Dr. H. G. Brainerd and Dr. R. Wernick of Los Angeles, specialists on brain disorders, have been called to testify in the Huse case on Thursday next.

George Bryant of this city was recently reported to have been very seriously injured in El Dorado County. His injuries were but slight.

A marriage license was issued to Edward H. Mulligan of Chicago and Miss Amy Stillman of Redlands. Miss Stillman is a sister-in-law of F. P. Morrison and a daughter of the late Dr. Stillman, at one time family physician of Senator Stanford. Mr. Mulligan was formerly of Redlands.

THE JUDGE HUSE CASE.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 18.—The case of Judge Huse on writ of habeas corpus in which petition sets forth that he is illegally confined in the insane asylum at Highland, has been before the Superior Court for a hearing several times. At the last hearing it was continued until next Thursday in order to call expert witnesses to testify as to Huse's mental condition. Subpoenas have been issued for Drs. W. W. Hitchcock, H. G. Brainerd and R. Wernick of Los Angeles. The case is a remarkable one. Through several sittings of the court, Judge Huse has acted as counsel for himself and has cross-examined witnesses, testified on the witness stand and argued his case with keenness and persistency rarely found in an ordinary lawyer, and without a break. Indications of unsoundness of mind. Yet the officials of the asylum persist in declaring him insane. The fact that the court has twice and continues to give the case the most careful scrutiny shows at least that the presiding Judge Oates proposes to probe the case to the bottom.

REDLANDS.

REDLANDS, April 18.—(Regular Correspondence.) The High School Board of Trustees met this morning with the Redlands, Ligonja and Crafton grammar school trustees present by invitation. The matter of promotions from the grammar schools to the High School was thoroughly canvassed. A change made in the course of study by the County Board of Education in March has brought up difficulties which will interfere with promotions to the High School unless some concessions are made by the County Board.

The Republican primaries were quietly held this morning. It is noon. It is thought a solid A.P.A. delegation will be chosen to the county convention. So far as can be learned this delegation is by no means unfriendly to McKinley. In fact, it is believed he is the first choice of the majority of the delegates. It is notable, however, that new blood is being brought forth, the delegation including scarcely one of the old war horses of the party, if judgment can be formed before the voting is finished.

A car showing the waste of money interests the jurors to convict Elmer Sader, accused of jumping a board bill. The Supervisors tried to prevent the arrest on account of the expense of hunting up the man, who had gone to Northern California, and against whom the evidence was very weak, but the compelling witness insisted. The case cost the county $200 and the jury failed to agree, when the case was dismissed.

The following residences are now in course of erection: Mrs. I. Alder, $5000; Irwin Runyan, $2500; C. C. Beard, $600; J. M. Lynn, $500; Mrs. C. E. Clark, $4000; H. H. Pettit, $4000; J. M. Lynn, two cottages, $1000; T. S. Holiday, $1500; Mr. Stewart, Mound City, $4000; Mr. Davis, Mound City, $4000; W. A. Miller, Mound, $2000; Mr. Wade, $500; Mr. Gay, $3000. Total, $35,000.

A marriage license was today issued to Edward H. Mulligan of Chicago and Miss Amy Stillman of Redlands. Miss Stillman is a sister-in-law of F. P. Morrison and a daughter of the late Dr. Stillman, at one time family physician of Senator Stanford. Mr. Mulligan was formerly of Redlands.

Redlands was visited today (Saturday) by the Nevada Press Association, a party of jolly people who were taken for a drive over the city.

Mr. Abbie R. Tracy, wife of Charles E. Tracy, died yesterday. The funeral will occur Sunday at 2:30 p.m. from the family residence.

The cannery subscriptions have passed the $4000 point, and it is thought there is no longer any doubt that the $5000 will be raised, though it comes very slowly.

The Southern Pacific Company has arranged to put in an automatic alarm bell at the crossing of their road on Orange street.

HOTEL MEN APPRECIATIVE.

REDLANDS, April 17.—The following address to the people of California has been issued by the hotel men, now touring this part of the State:

"We, as individuals, as a delegation, and as an association, were never before entertained in such royal style as we have been since reaching this shore. Each day has seemed granted than the day before, while cities and towns give up their occupation to do us honor, receive us with open banquets, lunches and drives until today at Pasadena we received a reception at the grandest of that place which cannot we are sure, be surpassed during the balance of our trip."

"It seems as if every man who has settled here from New England, vied with the rest of the world in the product of this Garden of the Gods. Words cannot express the decorations of the interior of our special train. Thousands of roses, lilies, pansies, orange blossoms, literally filled the aisles and one would think they were in a forest of grapevines. And that the train and New England were with us. We take this opportunity of telling our many friends in New England what California is doing for us. This message has been sent free, as have been all our business, social and personal telegrams through courtesy of the Western Union, which has extended, through their representatives Superintendent Jaynes and C. S. Norton, the use of their lines.

"Thanking you in advance for giving this space in your esteemed paper, we are yours very truly,

New England delegation H. M. B., George H. Bowker, chairman; William W. Davis, secretary."

SANTA MONICA.

Early Morning Fire—Sudden Death of a Child.

SANTA MONICA, April 18.—(Regular Correspondence.) The town was aroused at 2:30 o'clock this morning by an alarm of fire. The burning building was on the north side of Railroad avenue, between Second and Third streets. The house was partially occupied and partially stocked with furniture. The building was of light construction and burned very rapidly. The department responded to the alarm and succeeded after a fierce fight in saving adjacent buildings. The loss will amount to perhaps $10,000. The buildings belonged to the McNally estate. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

A CHILD'S SUDDEN DEATH.

Cooker Campbell held an inquest this morning on the case of the death of the child of Mrs. M. A. Alward, who live on Second street between Aransas and Nevada avenue. It appeared the boy was 4 months old and had been ordinarily well up to a week before its death. It was left alone a room for about an hour Friday afternoon, but the people did not leave the house. It was found dead.

The indications pointed to pneumonia, and the jury rendered a verdict to that effect. It is thought the convulsions were due to a stomach disorder, which was not apparent before death.

BREVITIES.

W. A. Spalding and family, formerly of Los Angeles, have taken a house at the southerly end of Ocean avenue and will remain for several months. The new Santa Monica hotel has been opened.

The Santa Fe will run special trains from April 22 to 25, inclusive, to accommodate visitors to the Los Angeles fests. A train will leave Santa Monica at 6:30 p.m. and returning, leave Los Angeles at 11 p.m.

The Santa Fe will run special trains from April 22 to 25, inclusive, to accommodate visitors to the Los Angeles fests. A train will leave Santa Monica at 6:30 p.m. and returning, leave Los Angeles at 11 p.m.

The second half of city and county taxes will become delinquent at 6 p.m. April 27. The penalty, on city taxes remaining unpaid after that time will be 10 percent.

The Board of Trustees will meet Monday evening to canvass the return of the recent city election and transact other business. It is expected the new board will be seated but it may not do any business.

COTON.

COTON, April 18.—(Regular Correspondence.) The primaries today are off quiet. It is generally expected that the delegates elected to the county convention will have an A. P. coloring, if not solidly of that faith.

Petty thieving is one of the nuisances to which the people of Coton are subject to. To combat this, clubs probably due in a great measure to the large number of tramps who pass through the town.

The news has compiled the following figures showing the good income of the people of Coton:

The daily procession of labor-men going to work at the cement works carrying their dinner-pails, reminds one of a mining camp. The cement works has a pay-roll of $3000, which helps to make Coton the liveliest little town in the state. The news is that there is more money handled in Coton per month, than there is in any other town this side of Los Angeles in proportion to her size. The Southern Pacific alone carries $1000 a day.

Frank Young, Will Watkins, Frank English and Tom Harlin, all of Santa Ana, have returned home from a two weeks' outing at San Juan Hot Springs. They report having inveigled several of the speckled beauties of the funny tribe out of the mountain brooks during their stay.

ORANGE COUNTY BREVITIES.
